Home for Danville Moonie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five young followers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon were turned over to their parents' custody Thursday after a court case their lawyer called "modern - day religious persecution."

Superior Court Judge S. Lee Vavuris ordered the parents to stay with their children for the 30-day conservatorships they had sought in order to have the youthful members of the Unification Church "deprogrammed."

The young people sat with their parents in the front rows, their heads bowed before the judge announced his decision. Their faces tensed when Vavuris granted the conservatorships, but they kept calm in the crowded courtroom.

In an unusual move, Vavuris said church attorneys Paul Goorjian and Ralph Baker could visit the five "Moonies" any time during the 30 days and he added he would welcome an appeal of the unprecedented decision.

In the past, parents of cult members often were given conservatorships without giving the young people a chance to present their side.

"This is a case of first impression and I welcome any appeal from the decision of this court," Vavuris said. "This is a case about the very essence of life — mother, father and children. There is nothing closer in our society than the family.

"A child is a child, even though the parent might be 90 and the child 60."

Vavuris said the conservatorships would start next Monday.

In closing arguments, Baker had urged the judge to deny the conservatorships, saying, "The parents had them 18 years. Now they're saying the 18 years didn't work out, so give us 30 days — just 30 days more."

The parents of Barbara Underwood, John Hovard, Leslie Brown, Janice Kaplan and Jacqueline Katz have argued that their children, all in their early 20s, have come under the influence of "artful and designing persons" who have exerted "coercive persuasion" on the young church members.

The mind control issue changed what was expected to be a four-day hearing into a 12 - day "trial" without a jury that turned on the issue of who were the true brainwashers — the church or the deprogrammers.

In closing arguments Thursday, Carl Shapiro, attorney for the parents, said after joining the church the five "ceased to be individuals who would stand up and challenge what they had been told.

Reaction to Mori's tax 'reshuffling'

LIVERMORE — Business and civic leaders here agree that a tax reform plan outlined earlier this week by Assemblyman Floyd Mori is a "reshuffling" plan, but their views differed vastly on the value of that reshuffling.

Key points in the plan include:

— state reimbursement of some property taxes paid by low and middle income households.

— end to the business inventory tax, a $450 million income source to local governments and burden to business.

— a "split tax" rate, with the state taking over the function of collecting taxes on industrial and commercial properties.

— allowing local governments to have a "piggy back" income tax collected by the state and turned over to participating agencies.

— a utility user's tax for general law cities.

A spot survey of some city council members and business leaders in Livermore elicited reactions from "burden on individual cities" and "one way street" to "well thought out," "comprehensive" and "responsive."

"I was really impressed with Mori's knowledge of the competing interests said Councilman John Staley, who speculated many political modifications would be made. "But, it sounds like a good place to start."

"The state is looking for additional places to raise taxes and they are looking at the industrial and commercial property as a big plum," complained contractor Ed Hutka.

"It's about time there was some concern of tax relief for the homeowner," said Chamber of Commerce President Bob Bruns, who was concerned about a "lack of definition where the upper income bracket that will pay for it begins."

Former chamber president and local banker Bill Manis complained the plan does not consider any reduction in government spending as a method to reduce taxes across the board.

Councilman Marshall Kamena praised the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee for its responsiveness, "so much so that the bill is being initiated collectively rather than by just one assemblyman."

Who benefits and who loses with this plan was another matter for conjecture locally.

Kamena and Staley stressed the plan would help people on fixed incomes and households with modest incomes.

Floyd Mori

"There are no tax reliefs," said Hutka, "because the state will turn around and pick it up elsewhere and the consumer ultimately pays for all the taxes. They have to be built into the merchandise prices."

Manis questioned the effect of taking the same taxing power away from local governments, which he speculated would have to find other ways of acquiring money for an already tight budget situation.

He said the split tax and the subsidized property taxes was a reshuffling that is "a loophole for government to continue increasing the tax base. Every consumer will lose in the long run."

How will the tax split affect the city's revenues?

Bad news on S.F. water in the mail

SUNOL — The lush green slopes of Castlewood and Sunol golf courses may be a little brown around the edges this summer, the flowerbeds a bit wilted as strict new rationing plans go into effect in the area.

Both clubs are supposed to slash their irrigation in half beginning immediately, under new San Francisco Water District regulations.

"The lawn may be a little bit brown but it's going to make it through the summer," promised Bob Vasconcillis, who since Monday has been serving in a position just created — Director of Water Conservation for the San Francisco Water District.

The district serves most of Sunol; Castlewood Country Club and surrounding neighborhood; the Lawrence Livermore Lab and the General Electric plant on Vallecitos Road.

According to Vasconcillis, local customers in two or three weeks will be receiving individual notices telling them how much their households must cut back in the coming months.

The cutbacks will be based on previous water use. There will be a sliding scale with small (150 cubic feet per month or less) consumers not asked to cut back and big consumers restricted to about 70 per cent of their previous consumption.

Customers will be able to appeal their water allotment if they feel their circumstances have made them eligible for an exemption. "You have to have equity," Vasconcillis says.

Businesses are being required to cut back 25 per cent in most cases. However, industries which need water for their manufacturing processes will be required to trim only 10 per cent. The smaller reduction has been allowed to the Lawrence Livermore Lab, although they don't actually use water for manufacturing, says Tandy Carter, manager of the Alameda County division of the huge water company.

GE Vallecitos, a plant which does utilize water, is also receiving a 10 per cent cutback, says Carter.

Restaurants, offices and other varieties of business are being held to a 25 per cent reduction in water use. Brochures on how to maintain plants at a survival level through the drought and how to take other conservation measures are being sent out with the cutback notices.

The San Francisco Water District sends 190 million gallons per day through the Sunol operation, 160 mgd from the Hetch Hetchy aqueduct and 30 mgd from local reservoirs. Local well water supplies Castlewood while a mixture of the other water goes to southern Alameda County, the Peninsula and San Francsico.

— by Pat Kennedy

Open to the public between 8 - 4:30 weekdays, the San Francisco Water District's "Water Temple" in Sunol — built in 1910 — is the center of the water project which supplies Sunol, Castlewood, the Lawrence Livermore Lab and General Electric Vallecitos plant.

Arguements presented

Ballot arguements have been written and released for the May 31 election question of public housing in Pleasanton.

Voters will decide whether or not to approve 150 units of housing to replace World War II vintage Komandorski Village on Dougherty Road near Dublin.

Injured youth better

Timothy R. Eckhardt, the 12-year-old youth struck by an auto while riding his bicycle on Division Street in Pleasanton early Tuesday, has improved and is now listed in serious but stable condition at Valley Memorial Hospital.

The Ridgewood Road rpsident suffered multiple fractures of his legs, arms and neck. He was initially listed in critical condition.

According to police, the Harvest Park student was riding his bike northbound against traffic on Division Street near Fair Street about 6:30 Tuesday morning when he was struck by a car driven by Maria Ortega, 24, of Komandorski Village.

The accident remains under investigation, police said yesterday.

Pageant deadline

Today is the final day for taking applications for the Maid of Pleasanton Pageant, scheduled May 29 at Castlewood Country Club.

Young women residing in the Pleasanton area who are between 17 and 25 may pickup applications at the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce office on W.Neal Street. The reigning Maid of Pleasanton, Julie Hemming, was a runnerup for Maid of California last year.

LAVWMA hears report

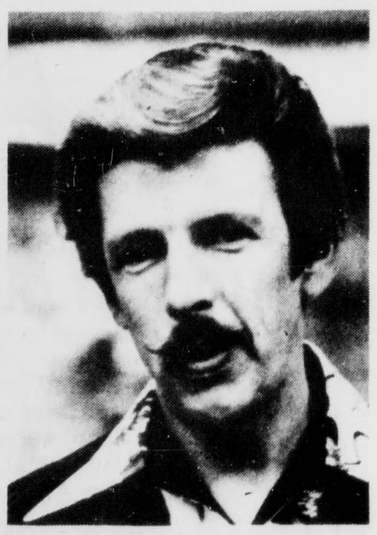
Nixed pipeline ruled best

DUBLIN — After several months of study at a total cost of $167,000, engineers last night reported that the wastewater disposal project voters defeated in November is still the most cost-effective proposal.

A 22-mile pipeline to take sewage 530 feet over Boehmer Summit and tie in with the cooperative South County super-sewer was estimated to cost $38 million, CH2M Hill Engineers told members of the Livermore Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA).

Other proposed alternatives, including combinations of reclamation, demineralization, and export pipelines to Suisun Bay or South San Francisco Bay, were estimated to cost from $43 million to $150 million.

The estimated $38 million cost is identical to a tentative estimate the firm made public in January.



Bob Philcox

The Boehmer Summit route was the same one voters defeated in November, except the proposed pipeline was 20 per cent larger and cost $10 million less.

LAVWMA members and representatives from each agency's councils heard the estimates but made no final decision as to which project they would attempt to implement. That decision must be made by March 31.

Agency chairman Robert Philcox and other LAVWMA members took notes during the report but made few comments.

Estimates of the costs to Valley residents, in the form of added sewer service charges, were not available as scheduled. Preliminary estimates would be given to LAVWMA members Monday.

Pleasanton— a home for the affluent

PLEASANTON — Many local residents have said they can no longer afford to buy back their own house and now the proof is out in the form of facts and figures being pondered by the city's growth control committee.

City planning staffer Brian Swift prepared a 25 page report for the 11 member committee's perusal last night and among its statements one sees that Pleasanton has become and will continue to evolve into a city of upper middle income persons.

Families in the lower middle to middle middle class, as the sociologists call them, could afford to buy into the community five to 10 years ago and they can stay because they are paying on their old mortgages. But if they sell, it's to families who are making more money than they are, according to the report.

The figures given in the report over a five year span from 1969 to 1974 show an impressive change in the financial demography of local residents. Although part of the difference is owed to inflation, it's obvious that much of it is not.

The most dramatic changes have occurred in two income groups. Those households earning from $10,000 to $14,999 have declined from 34 per cent in 1969 to 15 per cent in 1974. Those over $15,000 increased from 45 per cent to 73 per cent.

Families in the $7,000 to $9,999 income range dropped from 10.4 per cent to 4.6 per cent and households below the $7,000 level dropped from 10 per cent to approximately 7 per cent.

One conclusion of the report is that persons in the low and very low income ranges and even in the moderate range no longer can afford to buy a house in Pleasanton. If they're lucky, they will be able to rent something, said the report.

BART feeder buses show big gain

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Valley commuters have the second highest daily average on the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's feeder bus service.

And, significantly, about half the total patronage is during non-commute hours, according to BART.

Overall, the two-county express bus system run for BART by AC Transit showed a whopping 176 per cent increase since starting service a little more than two years ago.

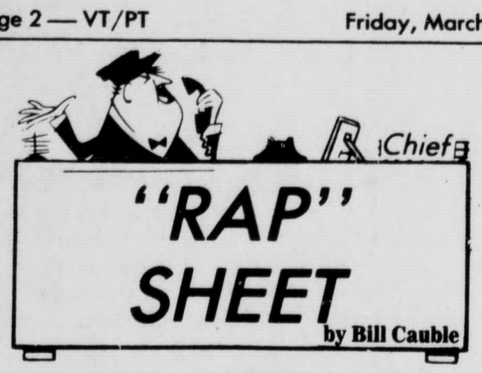
An average 1,489 people use the "U-line" from the Valley to the Bay Fair BART station in Hayward, while 973 take the "D-line" between Dublin and Walnut Creek.

By contrast, 2,112 commuters use the "M-P-line" in eastern Contra Costa County.

The system's five feeder bus lines average some 1,700 patrons each per day, with a total 4,700 people using the buses.

But BART still must subsidize the bus system with about $2 million each year, according to the report.

Farebox revenues for the past two years amount to $600,000, while costs total $4.3 million. Present revenues total some 16 per cent of operating costs.



Possible attempted rape reported on 16-year-old

LIVERMORE — A 16-year-old Granada High School student walking home from school Monday was accosted by a man in a car who said he wanted to buy a lock of her hair, police report.

The youth said she was walking on Murrieta near Oriole when a driver, who had moments earlier waved and honked at her, pulled up alongside her and asked to buy a lock of her hair for $30.

When she refused, the man grabbed her by the hair and attempted to pull her into the car while threatening to molest her. She broke free and hid behind bushes until the suspect left, and then called police.

The suspect is described as a heavy set man with brown curly hair parted on one side. He was driving a white two-door car with red primer spots.

No arrests were made.

18-month-old boy allegedly beaten, hospitalized

LIVERMORE — Police said yesterday that doctors at Valley Memorial Hospital determined an 18-month-old boy had been hit at least three times with a hard object in a suspected child abuse case.

The child's mother, a North K Street resident, told officers that her babysitter said the child had sustained the bruises on his buttocks when he fell from his crib. Doctors discounted the story, saying the youth had allegedly been beaten.

X-rays and photos of the injured youth were taken by police. The case is under investigation.

Search warrant leads to drug - related arrest

LIVERMORE — A 23-year-old Lambaren Street resident was booked on suspicion of an assortment of drug possession charges following a search of the suspect's house.

Detectives Dan Killeen and James Serna executed a narcotics search warrant on the home of Alvin Edward Jonas Jr. about 8:30 Monday night. Inside they found a quantity of suspected marijuana, hashhish, amal nitrates and cocaine residue, plus an assortment of alleged narcotics paraphernalia.

Jonas was booked on suspicion of possession of a prescription drug without a prescription, possession of more than one ounce of marijuana, possession of marijuana for sale, and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Eight cars damaged by thrown motor oil

LIVERMORE — Eight cars near condominiums in the Sandpiper Common complex received minor damage when vandals spilled motor oil on the vehicles, police reported.

Police said two-cycle motor oil had been thrown on eight mostly late model cars, including a two-day-old white 1977 Monte Carlo. There are no suspects.

LIVERMORE — Burglars entered the G&H Garage at 2322 First St. early Monday and stole two tape decks from two wrecked cars there, police reported.

The in-dash am/ fm/ tape units were valued at a total of $350. There are no suspects.

Strict 'ridge' zoning urged

Preserving the 1300 - square - miles of ridgelands stretching from northern Contra Costa County to Santa Clara County will require the more effective use of existing land control tools, according to a 93-page tome prepared by the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

And if those "tools" aren't used effectively, state and federal agencies may step in.

The weighty report was prepared by staff personnel from the tri-county "Multi - jurisdictional Ridgelands Study Committee," a consortium from Alameda, Contra Costa and Santa Clara counties, the East Bay Regional Park District, and the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The "review draft" was forwarded to the 15 members of the Citizens Advisory Committee last month for their comments before it goes on to the governing body of politicians from the three counties.

Heavily weighted toward preservation of the ridgelands as "open space," the report is bound to draw the ire of local ranchers who view it as encroachment on their property rights.

But while the report acknowledges "public acquisition (as) an important tool for protecting open space," it concludes "the majority of the area is likely to remain in private ownership."

Those private lands, rolling green velvet hills in the San Ramon Valley breaking into steeper slopes from Pleasanton south, should be kept as open space through commercial grazing, according to the report.

But the authrs claim inequitable property tax levies and inheritance taxes coupled with the inadequate Williamson Act make ranching unprofitable. Consequently, pressures for suburban or semi-rural development grow and the land is sold to speculators or developers.

"Protection of ranching in the Ridgelands will require adoption of strict land use regulations by the counties, as well as effective urban development policies to prevent the cities from extending urban development into the area," according to the report.

And that will "require the granting of property tax relief to grazing lands, and . . . that public park acquisition programs be sensitive to their potential adverse impacts on adjacent privately owned lands being used for grazing."

Local ranchers claim public use of EBRPD land leads to the rapid deterioration of adjoining private parcels as the public spills over into commercial grazing or agricultural land.

The "basic tools necessary to preserve the open space resources" already are available to local government, the technicians say.

But "If they do not use these tools effectively and open space lands in the ridgelands continue to be destroyed or degraded, it will only create further pressure and justification for the State and/ or Federal governments to step in and take action."

Pointing to "other instances where local governments have failed to act as responsible stewards for the natural resources under their control (the coast, San Francisco Bay and Lake Tahoe)," the report cites fears "political considerations" may stop strict open space polices, or weaken existing ones.

And "despite recent efforts by local governments" to preserve the ridgelands, critics claim existing local plans are not adequate to preserve the area.

What price charity?

Holiday Inn innkeeper Al Souders and his assistant John Kipper got the heave ho, fully clothed, into the 48 degree water of the Inn's swimming pool yesterday. It was part of a challenge by employes who offered to donate $100 to the Easter Seals campaign for the privelege of the dunking. They raised $100.55 and offered the bosses a stiff drink after they emerged looking like dripping muskrats. Souders and Rotary President Dick Fitch will appear on NBC, Channel Three, 2:45 p.m. Sunday to donate local contributions during the Easter Seal Campaign telethon. Contributions come from the employe dunking donation, Holiday Inn coffee sales from the past two weekends, citizen donations in a Holiday Inn lobby box, and the Rotary Club.

Plane crash on Diablo, pilot dead

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ--The Coroner's Office has identified the pilot killed in a plane crash on Mt. Diablo Wednesday evening as Robert Wasserman, 29, of Carmichael, Ca.

He was returning to Sacramento from San Jose in his Piper Archer plane alone according to reports, when he failed to clear the summit of the north peak by 200 feet between 6:30 and 7 p.m.

The Oakland Flight Service Station said the freezing level at the time was 4,800 feet, but that it was cloudy at the 3,000-foot level.

The crash was discovered by 18-year-old Tag West of 420 Creekside, Dr., Walnut Creek, who was camping on the mountain at the time.

West heard the crash and flames, but when he arrived at the scene, the fire was extinguished.

He heard the engine before that, he said, and it "sounded normal."

West hike for three hours to the Clayton Police Dept. and a rescue crew from the Marsh Creek Fire Dpt. returned to the scene after midnight, finding the wreckage and Wasserman strapped in the pilot's seat.

The crew delayed operations until Thursday morning because of the snow and dark.

Officials from that station and the National Air Transportation Safety Board are conducting an investigation of the incident, along with the Sheriff's Office.

Wasserman was an ingineer from Feneral Electric and was returning from San Jose after a business deal, said the coroner.

He lived at 2853 Westwood Lane, no. 7, in Carmichael and was single. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Felig Wasserman of Cape Cod, Mass.

New president for taxpayers

LIVERMORE — Jerry Wilverding was installed last night as president of the local American Taxpayers Union.

Wilverding, 51, and a resident of Livermore since 1964, joined the ATU two years ago after city council invalidated a 3,300 signature petition asking a ballot vote on the railroad relocation project.

"When you have that many people sign a petition government should pay some attention," said Wilverding, "but the city attorney ruled 3,000 of the signatures invalid."

Calling for the ATU to continue developing as a "constructive force in the community," Wilverding told The Times his organization was "analogous to a poor man's chamber of commerce."

"We are just taxpayers who normally have no organization to represent them," he said.

ATU members frequently speak at city council, LAVWMA and other public meetings, offering alternatives to present courses of action or thinking.

Often, they have been a "burr under the saddle" of local elected officials and irritation has often been observed between some ATU members and some members of the city council.

"I don't really know what it is," said Wilverding. "I sit there and experience it. We're just citizens like everyone else and we have a right to express what we believe in."

Other new officers are Ray Faltings, first vice - president; Loretta Terry, second vice - president; and John Halyak, secretary - treasurer. Ray Opper, an ATU charter member, installed the new officers.

The group was successful in opposing the November proposal for a 25 cent public safety tax override.

"We want to get the most for our tax dollars," said Wilverding.

Valley obituary

Alfred King

Alfred King, a native of California, died March 24 in a Livermore hospital at the age of 77.

He was the husband of the late Mae King. He is survived by daughters Mrs. LaFerne Mosteira and Mrs. Dora Mae Narin, both of Pleasanton.

He is also survived by five grandchildren and to great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Saturday, March 26, 11 a.m., at Graham Hitch Mortuary, 675 St. John St., Pleasanton.

Interment will be at Pleasanton Memorial Gardens.

Parade city fading

Once dubbed the "city of parades" and "parade capital of the west," Pleasanton today finds itself devoid of any major parades after Tuesday's action by a County Fair committee.

As the death knell was being sounded for the 42-year old parade at County Fair time, plans were apparently going ahead for a "second annual" parade in Pleasant Hill on the date eyed for the local event.

The apparent end of what had become an institution in Valley life was caused by a combination of factors. Combined, the entertainment committee of the County Fair Association Board of Directors had no alternative but to cancel this year's parade planned for Sunday, June 26.

Organizers of the Contra Costa County parade had apparently gotten wind of the relative uncertainty of the Alameda County Fair parade and moved aggressively ahead to secure entries.

When local organizers commenced their efforts, they found that many mounted groups and floats previously headed for Pleasanton had already sent in entry forms for Pleasant Hill.

There was also the question of obtaining judges, for which the County Fair Association had agreed to set aside $2,500 for. The California State Horsemen's Association, which has sent judges to the Valley parade, has made a stipulation that they will not judge another parade within a 50 mile radius.

Though this does not go into affect until next year, the local parade may have had difficulty getting judges for a June 26 march here.

In other business Tuesday, the entertainment committee announced the Amphitheatre headliner acts for this summer: June 27-28, Clay, Hart and Sallie of the Lawrence Welk Show; June 29-30, Jose Feliciano (unconfirmed); July 1-2, Skiles and Henderson; July 3-4, The Treniers; July 5-6, Freddie Fender; July 7-8, John Biner; July 9-10, Shari Lewis and "Lamb Chop."

Engineers say nixed plan best

The joint water board could hold a bond revenue election again in November, or build the project without voter approval on a pay - as - you - go system. Monthly increases could range from $3 to $12 initially.

State and federal grant funding of 87.5 per cent would be available for the Boehmer route. Officials said some aspects of other plans, including demineralization and right - of - way costs, would have to be funded entirely by local monies.

Grant funding is provided only if the most cost effective project is selected.

Pleasanton housing

For example, to qualify for a new home, now in the $60,000 to $80,000 range in Pleasanton, a household must have an annual income between $24,000 and $40,000.

And even resale homes, those traditional bargains, are selling for the same as new homes, said the report.

The report suggests a wide variety of programs which can be used to encourage construction of lower cost housing. It's subsidized and won't affect the middle middle class, but if it's not done, even the dwindling percentage of lower income persons can't be helped, said the report.

Tax reshuffling

"That depends on the powers allowed to the local jurisdictions said Kamena, who questioned if the state "will give us the capability of adjusting the tax rate so we will get back the amount lost to the state."

Hutka said individual homeowners will actually get hurt by the action, noting the allowable increases in "piggy back" income taxes and utility user's taxes that would be added to every utility bill.

"It doesn't equalize it, but it will cost the individual homeowner and renter much more," he said.

Staley disagreed, speculating that with a progressive subsidy system of homeowner taxation, lower income households would also be paying little or not taxes on income.

Foreign students needing housing

Fifty per cent of the goal of the needed homes for French students this summer has been reached, project chairman Larry R. Moore announced this week.

Moore, a language teacher at Amador Valley High School, said 20 more homes are needed for the visitors, who will be here from August 4 to 31.

The students who come to the United States on programs originated by the Foreign Study League come as students and not as tourists. Their goal is to learn more about the U.S. and its people. This program offers the student cultural exposure, a chance to improve spoken and written English, and an opportunity to become exposed to a wide variety of local activities.

The students will be taking classes at Amador Valley High during their stay. The classes will be taught by John McDonald of Dublin High School and Jack McConnell of Amador Valley High.

Host families receive no financial reward for their hospitality so that the cost of the program can be kept at a level which the average foreign student can afford.

For more information, please contact Moore at 846-2818 or 443-3571.

Leather slapping action

Cartoonist invites art seeking buffs

LIVERMORE — Ever wish you could draw a cartoon of somebody at work as a sendoff gift — or sketch your own Christmas cards — or just doodle around competently, for fun?

Don Parkhurst, cartoonist, makes all your dreams come true in a beginning freehand drawing and cartooning class offered free through the Livermore Adult School.

The class will be held Wednesday evenings for three hours, 7 - 10 p.m., through June. Although the course is already in progress, Parkhurst is still accepting new students until next week.

Registration, which costs $4, is handled through the adult school office, 3044 East Ave. (447 - 6671.)

Always the quest

The course covers face and figure drawing, caricaturing, light and shadow and sketching animals. Students should bring India ink, pen and brushes, good quality bond art paper, pencil and eraser "and," says the teacher, "a sense of humor."

Pleasanton trustees end staff bargaining

PLEASANTON — Pleasanton Joint School District Trustees reviewed a fact-finders' report, and in their words, completed contract negotiations last night before 175 parents and teachers at Harvest Park School.

The 1976-77 school year, then, will be completed without any contract being signed.

After some 38 minutes of comments from the audience, many from Amador District teachers, the board adopted a salary schedule for 1976-77 reflecting a 4 per cent increase retroactive to July 1. 1976.

The board also adopted the calendar for the remainder of the school year and released salary increments for classified employes.

The comments by board members and audience alike ranged from a suggestion "deunionize" the district to individual support for binding arbitration.

Tom Zach, president of the Amador Valley Teachers Association, said Carl Krause had said that, after Friday (today) the district would only accept documents related to negotiations on the 1977-78 contract.

The meeting of Pleasanton district teacher negotiators, the administration and trustees, including those recently elected, lasted from 4 p.m. Wednesday until 3 the following morning.

Zach said that neither Keith Breon, legal counsel and negotiator for the Amador and Pleasanton districts, or mediator John McCarthy were present.

He claimed that trustees were reticent to meet with teacher unit leadership in across - the - table talks.

Zach said yesterday that teacher leadership was willing Wednesday to consider a limited form of binding arbitration.

He had requested Wednesday evening that board members hear their position in regards binding arbitration of grievances and binding arbitration of interests.

At 1 a.m. Thursday, AVTA made an offer in which they would give up four fact - finding report recommendations in exchange for two items requested by teachers. "We were accepting many of their pre-fact finding positions," claimed Zach.

Reason for the meeting being held at Harvest Park School rather than district offices involved the potential size of the audience.

It was learned that principals had been asked by the administration to contact parent group members sympathetic to the district position and urge them to be at last night's meeting.

Zach said he was aware of this early Thursday.

Gathering of the Pleasanton trustees again Wednesday night could again have put them in violation of Brown Act tenets, since no formal advance notice was given of the meeting.

The Amador tustees were to hold another extraordinary early morning session at 6:30 today, presumably on the status of negotiations.

Amador district teachers have set a strike date deadline of April 14.

Dublin students spur drive in water conservation effort

DUBLIN— Doris Battin's NOW class at Dublin School has culminated a wide-spread effort to inform fellow students and the public of the need to conserve water.

The junior high age students are sending off petitions to not only Assemblyman Floyd Mori and Sen. John Holmdahl, but Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., noting the concern of Dublin residents that measures be enacted to insure "wise use of water in the future."

But the campaign has gone far beyond the petition stage, the students making and setting-up displays at the school and giving demonstrations and talks on economic use of water to fellow students.

The exhibits, including posters, charts and examples of water - saving devices, have been on display at the school on Vomac Road the past two weeks.

If you've noticed bumper stickers keyed to water conservation, no doubt they came from the NOW class.

Students also hoped to speak with Congressman Fortney Stark to underline their concern of the drought conditions that have plagued the state for almost two years.

By a week ago, students had filled some one dozen petitions that will go to Brown, Mori and Holmdahl.

The petition going to Gov. Brown says, "We, the undersigned, citizens of Dublin/ San Ramon, Calif. urge you to get the 17 western states' governors and water experts to conduct a series of meetings to plan conservation of present water and draft a long-range interstate plan for future wise use of water."

The in-school campaign has been no less impressive.

Students of the NOW class have made many presentations, mostly to primary grade students, on ways they can cut down on water — all the way from when they brush their teeth to the use of water to clean objects around the house.

Mrs. Battin and her students believe they have had an impact on the "water use habits" of adults and young people in their area.

Now they hope to impress their concerns on Gov. Brown and legislators, so that water is used more wisely in all the western states in the future.

Night astronomy class offered at Amador High

Astronomy is the oldest science, yet in many ways it is also the newest.

The extension of man and his instruments into space as well as the rapid development of such specialized fields as gamma ray, X-ray and infrared astronomy has produced mountains of new information and has drastically changed some of our ideas about the universe we live in.

Quasars, pulsars and black holes are new phenomenom which scientists are still trying to explain objects only recently discovered. Planetary probes to Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter have produced views and ideas about those worlds unknown until recent years.

A course designed to survey and review these newest developments to the oldest of sciences is being offered now, Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. at Amador Valley High School in Pleasanton. In addition to discussions of current topics in astronomy, observing session and field trips are planned.

There are also many openings in other Amador Adult Education classes including:

English for the foreign born, GED preparation, basic mathematics, reading improvement, U.S. History II, civics, bookkeeping and accounting, business machines, secretarial brush - up, confident communication, art appreciation, cartooning, dressmaking, decorative crafts, sketching for beginners, oils, weaving as an art form, tailoring, patterns and adjustments, creative stitchery and knitting.

For further information, contact the Adult Education office at 462-5500.

Dubliner eyes title Teen Queen

Valerie Fox, a 15-year old student at Dublin High School, will participate in the finals of the California Teen Queen Pageant at Ventura June 10 and 11.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Fox, Valerie is a member of the Dublin choir and is interested in drama. She hopes to pursue a career as a singer or model after graduation.

Valerie Fox

The California pageant is a preliminary to the national finals.

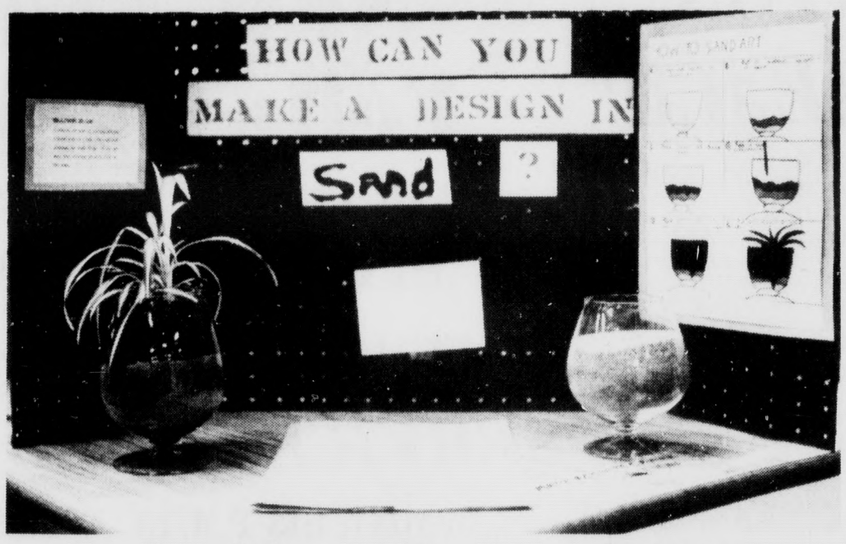
Participants are ages 13 through 17. They are eligible to enter based solely on the age limits. Judging is based on scholastic achievement, civic contributions, leadership, citizenship and essay. There will also be a personality and photogenic category in addition to the state title and five runners-up. Awards will be given in all categories.

In addition to scholarships, the titleholder receives an all-expense paid tour to the national finals where she will represent her state.

Current state titleholder is Laura Vander Mey of Ukiah. National titleholder is Linda Mueller of Elria, Ohio.

The state finals program in June will be held at the Holiday Inn on the Beach in Ventura.

Teenagers are invited to participate. They may do so by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to National Pageants, 11865 Main St., Roscoe, Illinois 61073.



Lydiksen Project Fair

Lydiksen School in Pleasanton recently held its own Project Fair, a forerunner of the annual district-wide Project Fair sponsored by Murray School District. Science and craft projects, approximately 200 in number, were displayed for student and parent view throughout the school. The project above, "How Can You Make a Design for Sand?" is that of sixth grader Kirk Nelson. The district-wide fair is scheduled Thursday, March 31.

School leaders set SF confab

The Association of California School Administrators will host its annual spring conference in San Francisco April 2-5.

5,000 school administrators and guests from throughout California are expected to attend this conference.

This year the Rev. Jesse Jackson will be one of the featured speakers along with John Wherry, executive director of the National School Public Relations Association; Reginald Alleyne, chairman of the Educational Employment Relations Board; Ruth Love, Oakland Unified School District superintendent; Ralph Tyler, director, Center for Study of Democratic Institutions; and John Goodlad, dean of the graduate school of education at UCLA.

One hundred workshop sessions will key in on many of the timely topics in education today.

Metrics course open

If centimeters, deciliters and degrees Celcius sound foreign to you the Amador Valley Adult Education program is offering a special evening class to introduce you to this easier way to measure.

The metrics class meets Wednesday nights from 7 to 10 p.m. at Dublin High School, Room C-2. Registration may be accomplished in the classroom. In addition to the S.I. Metric System of Measurement, emphasis will be placed on the pocket electronic calculator for making measurement conversions.

Parents should consider that their children are already learning the metric system and will be asking for help with "metric" homework. The new metric measures are already showing up in the market place.

If you did not register last week, you may do so before you go to class. For further information, please contact the Amador Adult Education office at 462-5500, ext. 17.

Band's Spring Concert

PLEASANTON— The Pleasanton Bicentennial Community Band will present a spring concert at the Amador Valley High School auditorium Sunday at 3 p.m.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

The program will initiate the new season by including a wide variety of music, including highlights from "West Side Story," a Cole Porter medley, "Air De Sarabande" by Handel, music from "The Sting", a host of marches and much more.

Opening the program in exultant fashion will be the band's rendtion of "Thunder and Blazes March," arranged by J.S. Seredy. The band is also tentatively scheduled to perform "Invercargill March," arranged by L.P Laurendeau, "Appalachian Suite", "Emblem of Unity March," and an Irish tune from County Derry, Ireland.

The band was created in the summer of 1975 by the Pleasanton Bicentennial Committee to provide music at many of the functions celebrating the Nation's 200th year. Directed by Jerry Lapinski, the band has completed its chartered function, and now is ready to emerge as a permanent community group.

This spring concert will represent the first community offering.

Mori on drug traffic

Doctors who reap huge profits by selling drugs to street dealers or direct to patients are the target of a bill introduced this week by Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D - Pleasanton.)

Citing abuses by the medical profession which yield windfall profits while also contributing to narcotics' addiction, Mori noted that "this bill would make it harder for a few doctors to divert large amounts of drugs to the illegal market."

The case of one Oakland physician who had been buying pills at $15 per thousand and reselling them to street dealers for as much as $100 was revealed by Mori. That same doctor's office was found to have 174,000 pills worth $500,000. Other instances of doctors "tempted to sell too many drugs or drugs that are worthless in order to make a profit" were also cited by the South Alameda County legislator. One such case involved a woman admitted to a hospital for a drug overdose where it was determined she had been treated for obesity "with an irrational array of medicines made by an obscure manufacturer" but all issued to her by her doctor.

Mori contends higher quality service and lower consumer costs would also result from his bill. He argues that "since the California legislature has already determined a doctor should not own a pharmacy ... why should he be allowed a pharmacy right in his own office?" Doctors who sell drugs direct to patients "discourage those patients from shopping for the lowest price."

Mori authored similar legislation last year which was passed by the Assembly, but stalled in the Senate Business and Professions Committee.

Red Cross aid rescues woman

PLEASANTON — Local resident Freya Wilmotte was one of the first persons to receive the benefits of a new Red Cross program to assist victims of crime.

Wilmotte, who has sold her house and intends to move to Idaho where her finances will hold up better, was a hit - run accident victim whose injuries prevented her from returning to work as a respiratory therapist.

Hospital bills mounted and though she eventually got aid from a special state fund for accidents, she was glad to receive aid from the Red Cross's new fund.

Utility companies were threatening to cut off service because of unpaid bills when the Red Cross came to her aid and paid the bills.

The Red Cross program is believed to be the first of its kind in the nation from a private agency. It has won the endorsement of East Bay hospitals, the Oakland Social Security Administration office, Alameda County District Attorney Lowell Jensen and Oakland Police Chief George Har.

Dale Roe, Red Cross chapter manager, hopes that as the program continues, private funding may be found to supplement Red Cross money. As a yardstick of need, he said that in 1975 California logged 180,000 violent crimes and only 3.5 per cent of the victims applied to the state's victim compensation fund for aid. Approximately 9,000 of those crimes occurred in Alameda County.

Roe thinks that the new aid program may outdistance another Red Cross service, asistance to families who are burned out of their homes.

IDENTIFIED FLYING OBJECTS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — There were 1,117 manmade objects in space at the end of 1976, according to the North American Air Defense Command.

The number of satellites and pieces of debris from fragmented rocket bodies is up from the 1975 record of 929 objects.

Citizen of the Year contest for Dublin and San Ramon

DUBLIN — Nominations are being accepted until April 22, for the Dublin-San Ramon Citizen of the Year Award.

An anonymous committee is in the process of looking for the citizen who has contributed time, talent and untiring work to the community.

The Dublin Chamber of Commerce is helping with the program.

Rules for eligibility of a nominee are: All canidates must be active in local community affairs and either work or reside in the Dublin-San Ramon area.

The board of directors for Valley Community Services District, Dublin Chamber of Commerce, Murray School District, San Ramon Unified School District or previous recipients of the award are not eligible for this title.

All applications must include the nominee's first and last name, place of employment, home address and a short summary of his or her participation in local activities. Unless these items are included in the application, it will be rejected.

Anyone may submit a name to the committee by mailing it to Citizen of the Year, Larry Sautter, chairman, 7996 Amador Valley Blvd., Dublin, Calif. 94566.

The submissions may also be brought to the Dublin Chamber of Commerce Office, 7996 Amador Valley Blvd., Dublin, Calif. 94566.

Mulberry keeps pace

The scrapbook of Mulberry Branch of Children's Hospital, reads like a light-hearted chronicle of changing fashions, fads, mores and moods. In the 20-odd years since its incorporation, the branch has explored myriad ways of raising dollars for a good cause, all while giving localites a social whirl for their money.

It's a creditable testimony to the imagination and perseverance of a small group of dedicated women. In case that sounds dull, they also managed to mix a good measure of fun with the work.

Pleasanton Valley roses cultivated by Jackson and Perkins were a big hit at the annual exhibit tea in 1955 when Mulberry made its debut among the branches of Children's Hospital. May Mitchell had hosted Mulberry's first meeting in the spring of 1954 for charter members Mrs. A. H. Johnson, Mrs. Edwin Burr, Mrs. William Corbett, Mrs. Howard Hansen, Mrs. E. A. Kamp, Mrs. Mildred Kruse, Mrs. Harold Shanks and Mrs. William Struthers.

Admission to the parade of fashions from Joseph Magnin was only $3 when Mrs. Harold Moller chaired a show for Mulberry's 700 guests that first year. It was the first of many, culminating in a fashion fest for 1,200 one year.

Mulberry estabilised a tradition of excellence at the 1956 Alameda County Fair, capturing a blue ribbon for its cottage garden exhibit. A flurry of ribbons followed.

Highlight of the 1957 fashion show were gowns worn at President Eisenhower's inaugural ball modeled by Mrs. James Nordahl, Mrs. Henry Ross and Mrs. Ronald Curtola. Two authentic Paris creations dazzled guests at a Roaring Twenties extravaganza which made all the newspapers. Party-goers wore rolled silk stockings and knickers.

"I Love Meeces to Pieces" was the whimsical theme of a table setting entered by Mulberry in an Easter fair at the Claremont Hotel. The entry based on cartoon character Huckleberry Hound was tops.

In the Sixties, a popular Mulberry project answered the prayers of sub-teens for lessons in etiquette and ballroom dancing. "Neatness and good manners are de rigeur for the enrollees," chirped a local society editor. "Beaux and Belles" was quietly dropped in 1969 for lack of interest.

The annual fashion shows gave way to a big horse show for young people in 1966 which is still going strong. Bridge marathons, tennis tournaments, and the tasting of local wines were equally successful projects.

Mrs. James Merritt and Mrs. Karl Wente made the news for Mulberry in 1960 with a wine-tasting project.

In 1969 the branch boasted a record $7,000 donation to Children's Hospital. This year that donation was over $10,000. Foremost in the hearts of Mulberry members throughout the years has been Children's Hospital which serves young patients throughout Northern California with topflight care regardless of ability to pay.

The branch hosts its latest fundraiser — a lecture — tonight featuring Raymond Procunier at the Livermore High School student union. The public is welcome to hear the discussion of California's health care and criminal justice systems at 8 p.m.

Teachers

There are those who maintain "public education in this community will never be the same." Perhaps that is good.

The teachers have made profound changes in the old community - school relationship with their insistence on "compulsory arbitration." The trustees and the administrators have already rewritten the form of those wage contract talks by bringing in their own "professional consultant" to handle the bulk of negotiations.

Now it becomes clear that parents also are changing their traditional acceptance of the public school status quo.

"Taxpayers shouldn't have to support incompetent teachers," is a persistent refrain in those letters and comments we receive from the once "silent majority." They are silent no more. A home owner and breadwinner who has labored half a lifetime to gain this suburban status notes "I don't have any contract guaranteeing me a job for a year or more ... and I sure don't have lifetime tenure."

Teachers have chosen to bring their "profession" into the same arena, governed by the same standards which apply to all labor. Perhaps "full union rights" for educators is good; it may have been inevitable. But the net result is that society is preparing to view the teacher as just another member of the working class ... to be afforded no protection, or denied any right, that is not enjoyed by the rest of us.

Mori's tax plan

Watching Assemblyman Floyd Mori outline his no - nonsense ideas on "meaningful tax reform for the home owner" leaves even the most skeptical with respect for that one legislator's chances of getting his Revenue and Taxation Committee's tax package through the Assembly.

Which is one reason why we hasten to submit this critique of the proposal outlined by Mori in his appearance before the Livermore Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday.

Giving to the state authority to "collect all of the property tax revenues from industry and commerce" while also providing "in lieu income to offset revenue lost at the local level" is, in our opinion, a proposal fraught with danger.

One of the few reasons for advocating commercial and industrial development within any local setting — particularly a suburban city — is the promise of tax revenue certain to accrue to that community. Remove that property tax "windfall" from the local treasury and you remove almost all argument for convincing home owners to put up with that big retail center or that huge industrial complex close by their residential scene.

Mori is already on record as favoring "distribution of sales tax revenues on a regional rather than a city basis." That legislation, coupled with the flow of all property tax revenues from commerce direct to the state, would just about destroy a city's reasoning for pursuing commerce of any kind. Which leaves the county, with its inviting "unincorporated spread" as the one magnet for commercial and industrial sprawl. That's a blow to "sound land use" which most of us, including the former Mayor Mori, strongly oppose.

A sidebar to the legislature's one - two punch against development of commerce within the city's limits would be to remove most of the steam from that move to incorporate Dublin into Alameda County's 14th city. Running a municipal government isn't all that popular these days as it is; take the heart out of local taxation options and about all that's left to a city is the glory.

Union's expenses

Editor, The Times:
Since Tom Zach has challenged Dr. Newlin to explain what is the matter with binding arbitration, I am taking the liberty of explaining my own objections in more detail.

Binding arbitration is an attempt to require the taxpayers to pay the legal expenses of the union. Where else would one be expected to agree in advance to pay the legal expenses of an opponent in a suit over unspecified offenses that haven't even occurred yet? I find that an outrageous proposition. Binding arbitration is expensive and the real abuse comes when the union uses it to punish the taxpayers by bringing endless petty legal actions to financially bleed the community. I want no part of it.

Split infinitives

Editor, The Times:
Because of a conflict of interest that would be obvious, I cannot sign a letter to the editor regarding the teachers vs school administration but I certainly take exception to the letter in your March 16 issue signed by Ms. Robin Zachritz, English Department, Dublin High School, wherein she is making an issue out of Dr. Newlin's letter to the parents with semicolons, split infinitives and incorrect use of words.

I reviewed this letter with my youngsters and four of them have either graduated or attend Pleasanton schools and none of them could define a split infinitive nor knew an adverb from a noun or pronoun and only one of them could properly identify how a semicolon could be used.

If some of these people who call themselves teachers would spend more time teaching students and less time in the business of school administration, they might start turning out children who could read and write.

Silent majority

Editor, The Times:
I have been reading the truths, half-truths and untruths concerning Dr. Newlin and the Board of Trustees which have been made by the leadership of the teachers' union. As a concerned parent and member of the silent population, I would like to state my personal views ...

1. Salaries — The 9.22% increase (benefits, step increases and cost of living) is certainly adequate. If you want more cash in your pockets, then you should drop some of the benefits that are paid for by the community. ... salaries should be determined by job performance ... Good teachers should receive higher than average increases and marginal teachers should not receive increases.

2. Tenure — Teachers have more job security than any other professional person. ... it is very costly and virtually impossible to remove an incompetent teacher from her position. Tax payers should not have to support marginal teachers who are not doing their job. Tenure should be eliminated.

3. Binding Arbitration — ... there simply should not be binding arbitration where the results may impact on taxpayers' dollars.

4. Unions — Since we are apparently required by State law to have a union it should be open to those who desire to join the union. Teachers who do not feel the need of union representation should not be forced to pay union dues. ...

An effective teacher deserved security, good benefits, good pay and the freedom to determine the best methods of instruction in the class room. ... I urge the silent population to stand up and let the entire Board know by letter or telephone how they feel on the matters affecting the education of their children.

A teacher's day

Editor, The Times:
In response to Freida Dimestore —
Speaking as a professional teacher of some 23 years, may I set some of your inaccuracies right.

First, a teachers hours, 8-3, are set up by the district. It's ironic how may teachers rarely get to leave the building before 3:30 or 4:30 p.m. Many teachers serve on committees and give freely of their time to set up curriculum, etc. for the students. These meetings go on until 5-5:30 p.m.

Second, we teachers do not get paid for a 3 months vacation. We get approximately 10 weeks off during the summer to go back to college, take that much needed vacation or first have R and R. Our salaries are pro-rated over twelve months.

Thirdly, as per your information on plumbers: plumbers leave their company at 8:00 a.m. enroute to the job site in furnished transportation, use furnished tools and leave the job site in time to arrive back to the company by 4:30 p.m. The plumber works only 4 hours on Friday and makes $28 an hour.

Madam, if you are so inclined to be a professional get off your rusty dusty, go to college for 5 years and do your preparation then come join us.

FOCUS/Finance plans

'Low-$$ spreads'

The state Senate's new finance chairman, Sen. Albert Rodda D-Sacramento, is emerging as a powerful voice on everything from Serrano-Priest and taxes to ethics.

Rodda has said "... If we don't achieve some degree of property tax relief, the taxpayer revolt is going to be of such a magnitude that they may sign initiatives, qualify those initiatives, and vote for them ..."

Dean of the Senate, Rodda has authored the "lower-priced spread" response to the Serrano mandate for equalized spending in California schools. At $500 million, his measure will cost in its fifth year of operation about half as much as the response being offered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., according to Rodda. Rodda likens the governor's school finance bill to "the unveiling of the Titanic ... I thought it was a disaster."

The governor's bill has been noted on the news pages of The Times in past weeks, most recently as a followup to Assemblyman Floyd Mori's last Valley Education Advisory Committee gathering.

Though expressing reservations at the time, Mori felt Brown's plan would ultimately clear both houses — albeit in amended fashion. For more information on the Rodda and Brown financing plans, Valley residents should attend the Mori committee's next meeting on Thursday, March 31, 7:30 p.m. at the Pleasanton school district offices on Main Street.

It is difficult to assess the two education finance bills (by Rodda and Gov. Brown), though this writer would tend to favor Rodda's if for no other reason than it'll allegedly cost half as much as the governor's in its fifth year of operation.

Brown is adept at twisting arms and using "tradeoffs" to get his plans and schemes through.

In the past we have been critical of another man named Brown, who also wields plenty of political clout in this state, Assemblyman Willie Brown of San Francisco.

We have been apprised in recent days that Assemblyman Brown, who has been re-elected by substantial margins in a largely white district, is many things but NOT a "racist."

This term was applied to the articulate and hard-working legislator on this page several weeks ago.

To reset the scene briefly, we referred to a letter Brown sent some weeks ago to Barclay Simpson, president of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District board. The letter suggested in no uncertain terms that the board appoint a black man (Brown suggested a specific person) to replace Elmer Cooper, also a black man who resigned. Cooper had represented a district in San Francisco that is nine (9) per cent black.

The letter not withstanding, Mr. Brown's representatives remind us that the Assemblyman is not a "racist" ... and we adhere to that statement.

Livermore lost

Editor, The Times:
Why does the city of Livermore take private property off the tax rolls when it is not required? Also, why do the city officials persist in ruining trees and shrubs which are so needed in Livermore — when we lived there we suffered terribly from the summer heat!

Beautification is one thing — but to take away a man's yard and property after he has paid taxes on it for over 30 years is not beautification. It looks like robbery under the guise of the public good. To date, we have seen nothing in your paper saying the people of Livermore want to pay higher taxes and that is what happens every time you take taxable property off the rolls!

From what we understand, when you build the underpasses, you Increased Safety Hazards and Noise and Dust Pollution. Now, to extend a road into a private shopping center, you are taking a senior citizen's property. What kind of justice is that? What kind of conservation is that? What has happened to Livermore in the last 20 years since we lived there?

BART defended

Editor, The Times:
Your editorial "There goes BART" deserves comment.

Speed: I recall no promise of 85 mph. BART was designed for 80 mph top speed. Our experimental 70 mph limit seems to cut delays caused by equipment failure, giving more reliable service with little difference in overall trip times.

Headways: BART trains now run at least six minutes apart under CPUC CABS-1 restriction. (We think PUC will lift CABS in the next year) Why quibble if the trains will then run two minutes apart of three?

Valley Extension: A future rail line to the Valley? Since it would lie in the I-580 median, it cannot come before I-580 is widened all the way through Castro Valley. I wouldpush for it then, however, only if convinced that the Valley wants the convenience more than we dread the growth impact. I would probably seek an advisory election. BART's Board has taken no stand against the extension as you claim we have.

Cost: Your two billion dollar figure overstates the actual BART cost by nearly 20%.

We do have a lot wrong at BART, but not those things you condemned. (There's much that is right, too, including 1.4 billion passenger miles with no passenger fatalities or serious injuries to passengers. That many people miles in normal driving would mean well over 50 fatalities alone, plus many more injuries.)

Three of your four "factual" claims are false, and the fourth is peanuts. A mighty poor batting average. I hope that most of your usually fine editorials are better based in fact.

An open pipeline

Copy of a letter to —
City Council, Livermore:
The Valley Times ... reported the signing of the contract with the CH2M Hill Engineers to study three wastewater disposal alternatives. ... this firm seems set in favor of the original plan to pump the wastewater over the Boehmer Summit with its accompaning high energy use and costs. ... Niles Canyon may be ruled out because the pipeline route would be extremely erratic due to natural barriers leads one to assume that these engineering consultants are approaching the task with tunnel vision.

The Livermore Herald, March 14 stated "Will Lizzie Fountain be turned off?" that "the Public Works staff estimates that at least 100 gallons evaporates from Lizzie's pond area every day ... consider the amount of water vapor that an open conduit through Niles Canyon would put into the atmosphere daily ...

The cost of an open conduit to the South Bay or to join the E.B.D.A. interceptor must be considerably less than a covered volume restricted pipeline over Boehmer Summit with its pumping stations or even a volume restricted pipeline to Suisun Bay.

An open conduit ... would still allow the Niles Canyon to retain its current natural charm and uses. ... The decreased use of this open conduit or its abandonment when greater use of reclaimed water takes place in the future should be less of a financial drain to the Valley communities than either of the other current wastewater disposal alternatives.

El Charro connection

Copy of a letter to —
Supervisor V. Raymond:
Re: El Charro, the sooner the better! Let's not restrict it to just gravel trucks, however. Opening it to the public would cost little if any more. In any event, public funds should not go to what would be in essence a private road — like the present El Charro overpass at I-580.

Opening El Charro to the public would slash driving distance between the Granada area in Livermore and Dublin (and thus the entire Bay area). It would reduce traffic on Murrieta and through Pleasanton. When the City of Livermore closes Murrieta to build its proposed underpass there, traffic on P Street will be horrendous without an alternate route like El Charro.

An El Charro overpass of the railroads would be relatively cheap ... The only major cost would be the structure itself spanning the tracks and Stanley Blvd. Traffic would enter or leave Stanley on the South side, looping Stanley and the tracks as was once planned for the Isabel freeway.

An overpass at El Charro should accomodate BART's future LPX line at grade between the SP and WP tracks — where it should go to the line's end at Trevarno. (This would mn a minor shift of the WP through Livermore.) It belongs there — not on a ridiculous aerial structure north of the WP as the consultants proposed.

Hope you can put together a full service El Charro connecting Stanley Blvd. near Lone Star to I-580.

Saccharin syndrome

The proposed July 1 ban on saccharin is an incredible contradiction in policy that will only further erode respect for the government.

Saccharin, the artificial sweetener made from coal tar, has been found to cause bladder tumors in second generation rats — rats whose parents had been fed heavy doses of saccharin, and in turn were given great quantities from birth to death.

How much? To equal the same amounts in humans, a person would have to consume 1,250 12-ounce diet drinks each day for a lifetime. This equals 117 gallons of liquid, or 4,000 packets of saccharin a day for life.

This does not guarantee, even then, that a human would have any ill effects from the sweetener.

Sherwin Gardner, acting commissioner of the Federal Drug Administration, stated before a Congressional committee March 21: "We have no evidence that saccharin causes cancer in humans."

So consider what the government has said.

Cigaretts are proven to cause cancer. Not suspected. Proven.

Cyclamates, another artificial sweetener, was banned in 1968, again because a few rats developed cancer.

Alcoholic beverages are proven to be addictive, harmful to the liver and brain, and are a contributing factor in more than half of all fatal auto accidents.

The American Medical Association, in its March 21 Journal, says that studies conducted by Harvard University and Washington School of Medicine in St. Louis conclude that no serious damage is proven to result from even heavy usage of marijuana.

There it is, folks. If you want to get (or give) cancer, rot your liver or kill somebody on the highway, that's perfectly legal.

But — if you attempt to control diabetes, stop obesity or attain a non-injurious "high," forget it — you'll be arrested.

Scientific evidence? — or government protection for deeply-entrenched multi - billion - dollar industries? The answer seems obvious.

round the town

Bing Crosby marks a milestone in the entertainment industry, and he is joined in that tv'd special by friend Bob Hope, the two of them offering us a little soft - shoe shuffle and a lot of song in the course of that evening;

Bette Davis is given singular honor by the cinematic arts, and she is flanked by her contemporaries in a lively, fun - filled program of witty recollections, sharp stories, and more fast shuffling.

Together, these Crosby and Davis shows present the brightest, most viewed items on the tube since "Roots."

The fascinating thing about both programs is that they featured performers who "reached their peak" 20 or 30 years ago. The amazing thing is that not one of them is under 65 and ... in the case of Bing and Bob ... will never see 70 again.

So what's with this Geritol set? What keeps Bing and Bob and Bette and all those turn - of - the - century babes still bouncing along ... 30 — 40 — 50 years after they first set foot on stage, first uttered a word beyond the foot lights?

Of much more concern to the entertainment industry — What do we do for nostalgia after the Crosbys and the Hopes and all those other scintilating septuagenarians have finally fled this earth? It presents the moguls of movieland with quite a problem.

When Jack Benny was summoned out of retirement to co - star in a major cinematic production, there were some who wondered — "But will Jack's advanced age permit such a demanding role?" As it turned out, Jack never lived to find out. He was one seventy - year - old who couldn't quite make that last curtain call.

So what did Hollywood do? They drafted another star, five years Jack Benny's senior, and the result is history ... George Burns went on to win an Academy Award for his performance in "The Sunshine Boys."

Are the entertainers of our yesteryears any better than the contemporary crop of performers? We will never answer that one ... but I guarantee you the Class of 1930 has a helluva lot better chance of seeing 1980 than do any of today's "bright new stars."

It's sad, when you think about it. The "Beatles" survived for less than ten years as a group before they collapsed, as a team and as individuals.

The rock stars that had young admirers following them by the hundreds of thousands into open - air theaters, soon had them parading to the grave in tribute to "the sudden and tragic end of this beautiful person."

Beautiful, maybe; enduring, never. They're about as permanent as a quick fix. You could get better insurance odds on the life span of a fly. Most of them don't even make the bubble gum Card of Fame before they're already out of print, and out of sight. Literally.

Those of us who saved our biggest entertainment cheers for Jimmy Cagney, Perry Como, Walter Pigeon, can still enjoy the warmth of their presence, a generation later; and even after they're gone, the re - runs of their hundred performances will be played again and again. Their legacy is a treasure house of laughs, songs, the spark to light anew the warm fire of our memory.

But who is there for this generation of theater buffs to store away for future happiness? What bright new performer of the 60's will be around in the year 2000 to accept the standing ovation of a loving, remembering audience?

I'm not certain of the role entertainers play in our lives ... but the shrinks and the counselors have always agreed humankind is in need of a good laugh, or a thoughtful tear. They gave us a lot of both ... Al Jolson, Fibber McGee and Molly, Fred Allen. You can still catch any one of them on the radio, part of today's "nostalgia revival."

At least they left us something worth reviving. The music of George Gershwin had quality 40 years ago; it will lose none of that quality 40 years hence. After they've forgotten about our wars, our air pollution, our Watergates, tomorrow's historians will record that the legacy of America in the first half of this century was its tremendous ability to entertain.

I was thinking about that, watching Bing and Bob and Bette do their timeless thing. It was a great moment, and a sad one. Who is there left in the entertainment world to keep our children laughing, 30 years from now?

Berry's World

"What do you mean, 'No, I may NOT have the envelope, please'? GIVE ME THE STUPID ENVELOPE!"

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We have a retarded baby, a fact my wife refuses to accept. The doctor has talked with us but she wants to spend all the money I've ever made to go to some quacks to try to put a brain in my son's head where none now exists. It's absurd and impossible, but her inability to accept is ruining our lives. What can I do or say that will make my wife wake up? — N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: Your wife may gradually learn to accept this, but the chances are sse is going to need help in learning to adjust to the situation.

Unfortunately, some mothers and fathers unconsciously think of a child as a reward or a punishment. Unconsciously, they see a good, healthy baby as a reward for good behavior and an unhealthy infant as a punishment for something wrong they feel they must have done. Therefore, I believe, almost all parents of retarded children need professional guidance and help in learning how to accept the reality of retardation.

You're quite right in not wanting to waste money trying to do the impossible. You might help your wife by reassuring her that approximately 95 per cent of mentally abnormal children are educable to some degree, and consequently, should be educated within the public school system or in special community schools. If it's at all possible, the child should be educated and live at home rather than be sent to an institution where he is hidden away. Of course, in some severe cases, this is necessary for the welfare of the child and his or her family, but this should not be done without professional consultation.

I think you'll find time will help to heal some of the pain your wife now feels.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have three children the youngest of whom is just plain mean. I don't know what's wrong with him or whether this is only a passing phase, but it disturbs me and my neighbors. He is cruel to anyone or anything smaller than himself. He's even willing to tackle larger animals or older children unless he's previously been hurt by them. Then, his fear seems to stop his urges to harm them. He's only 4 and a holy terror. Neither his brother nor sister went through this phase. They love animals and up to now, we've always been able to have and enjoy pets. — S.K.

DEAR S.K.: The kind of behavior you describe shouldn't be overlooked. It isn't normal for children to be cruel to animals or to attack "anything smaller." This situation needs prompt attention not only to protect the children and the animals in your neighborhood, but to protect your child. Usually, cruelty in children is a cry for attention and help. Parents are mistaken in passing off such behavior as "just a phase." It isn't.

Your son may be in emotional trouble. I don't want to alarm you unnecessarily, but if left unchecked, this can extend into his adult years, indicating serious trouble ahead that may even lead to prison.

Studies show that often, children who are cruel to animals and other children were themselves treated cruely, usually by parents, or by older brothers and sisters. Talk to your little boy. Try to find out why he behaves this way. In addition, however, I think you should definitely take him to a doctor and have him thoroughly checked. I believe you may need professional guidance and the time to get it is now. It will save you time and trouble later. The sooner you can help your son, the better.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you said that crash diets may cause a loss of vital muscle mass. Is it possible to gain back the muscle which was lost with such a diet?

I am in high school and weigh 110 pounds. I like to run and last year I went on a diet and lost 10 pounds, thinking it would help me. I overdid it and lost the 10 pounds in two weeks.

Since losing the weight I can't run as fast and my legs are not as strong. That is why I want some way to regain my muscles.

DEAR READER — Yes, you can regain muscle mass and strength. A good example would be the prisoners of war who were on starvation diets. At the end of World War II many had used a large percentage of their muscle mass to maintain life. These men recovered their normal muscle mass after returning to a normal diet and activity program.

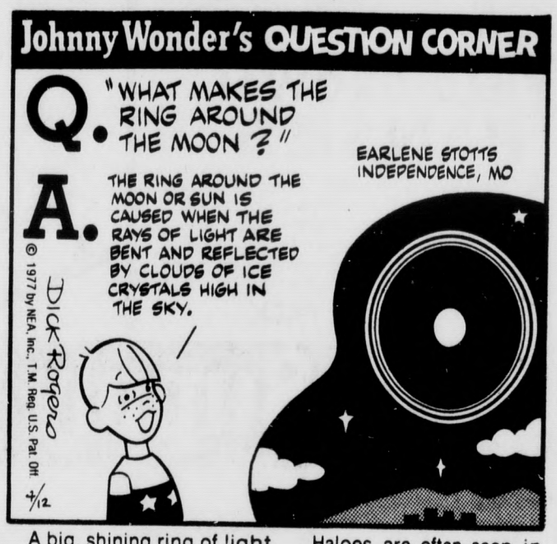
Muscle will grow to the size and strength necessary to perform any given task — under proper conditions. That means adequate nutrition and the right kind of training.

If you want to develop more strength in your legs I would suggest some modified deep knee bends. Kneel on your right knee with your left foot in front of you. Your left knee will be bent at a right angle. Now raise yourself up from the modified knee bend using your left thigh. This is a modified one leg knee bend. It won't hurt your knee joint because you won't be overbending your knee as you might with deep knee bends. It will load your thigh muscles and help them grow in size. Do about ten of these with one leg than switch to the other leg. If you do this every other day regularly it will help develop your thigh muscles. You can also develop thigh muscles with a stationary bicycle. As you increase the strength of the contraction you must use for the thigh muscles.

Running is an endurance exercise and it will not help you develop larger thighs. The muscles will be just large enough and strong enough to support your body weight during the running. Endurance exercises are those that you repeat over and over, as in running, jogging, even swimming and most sports. They are very good for the heart and lungs but are limited in how much increase in size and strength of the muscles they can produce.

You can help prevent loss of muscle mass during dieting by including enough protein in your diet each day and by persistent physical activity. Studies show that women on a diet alone lost muscle mass.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "WHAT MAKES THE RING AROUND THE MOON?"
A. THE RING AROUND THE MOON OR SUN IS CAUSED WHEN THE RAYS OF LIGHT ARE BENT AND REFLECTED BY CLOUDS OF ICE CRYSTALS HIGH IN THE SKY.
EARLENE STOTTS
INDEPENDENCE, MO

A big, shining ring of light sometimes appears around the moon. The ring is not really around the moon — it only seems to be.

The "ring around the moon" is caused when the moon shines on clouds of tiny ice crystals high in the sky. The ice crystals bend and reflect the moonlight to make a halo, or circle of light.

Sometimes two bright spots, that look like little moons, can be seen in the halo. They are called "moon dogs." We can sometimes see a halo around the sun, and we can also see "sun dogs," as the sun shines through clouds of ice crystals.

Haloes are often seen in Arctic regions. These colored rings are generally red on the inside, then orange, yellow, and white on the outside.

When you see a ring around the moon or sun, it usually means that a storm is coming. Smaller haloes sometimes appear around the moon or sun when light rays are bent and reflected by clouds of droplets.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of the oldest couples who still play duplicate bridge is Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Morrow of Joplin, Mo.

Mrs. Morrow is comparatively young — say about 80. We don't know how old Jed is, but he retired as Bridge editor of the Dallas News some 25 years ago, and he was not taking early retirement.

They are very dear friends of ours, but do needle us on occasion.

Today's hand was printed in our column of Aug. 16, 1976. We pointed out that if South plays dummy's king of spades at trick one East is likely to take the ace and shift to the queen of diamonds, whereupon three diamond tricks beat declarer. We then showed that if South plays low from dummy he will cover the second spade, ruff after East plays the ace, draw trumps, ruff the last spade, play four rounds of clubs to discard a diamond on the last club and catch West in an end play.

The Morrows point out East can beat the hand by playing his ace of spades at trick one and leading diamonds. Oswald Jacoby, a mere lad of 74, takes off his hat to any older, or younger, people who can make this play at the table.

The playground of the stars

On Sports

Skip Mohatt must be looking forward to June 28.

That's the date the Alameda County All-Stars, which Mohatt was recently selected to coach, will take on the Contra Costa All-Stars in the first of two basketball games matching the best high school cagers in the East Bay.

The Amador Valley High School mentor should inherit a flock of talent.

Skip Mohatt

Mohatt has said that the best basketball west of the Mississippi right now is played in Alameda County.

While some Los Angeles area prep fans might dispute that statement there's no question there is some excellent talent in Alameda County.

Much, if not most of the top individuals in the East Bay, compete in the Oakland Athletic League, which the past two seasons has been the supreme prep loop in Northern California and possibly the entire state.

This season Fremont won the OAL title and went on to breeze to the Northern California Tournament of Champions crown, winning the final easily over St. Joseph, ANOTHER Alameda County team.

It's possible OAL runner-up McClymonds and third-place Castlemont could have finished second and third in the TOC if they had been invited as at-large - teams. Castlemont romped to the Gridley Tournament crown, beating Kennedy of Richmond by 16 points. Castlemont was the TOC winner last season and had a veteran team back this year, so that tells you something about the OAL's strength this year.

While the OAL is the East Bay's best, the Catholic Athletic League, of which St. Joseph's is a member, is also highly - rated. Some prep observers rate it as the second best in the Bay Area behind the OAL.

However, the major differece between the OAL and the CAL is the pure talent of the players in each league. The OAL has several prep seniors who are good enough to play for a major college next year, the best example being Fremont's Phil Barner, Northern California Player of the Year.

The OAL teams generally play one - on - one, individual - style basketball but in a manner that is most impressive. The CAL teams are more committed to team play with athletes of less natural ability.

Sometimes too much talent can hurt a high school ball club. A good example of this is San Francisco's Mission High School, which had players who compared with Fremont's talent-wise but were unable to play as a team consistently. As a result, Mission finished a disappointing fourth in the TOC, being dumped by St. Joseph's, 72-59 in the semi-finals. Mission held more than a five-inch

Owners nix 3-division plan

Times SPORTS
Dave Weber, Editor

TAMPA, Fla. — Major league baseball club owners shot down the three - division proposal Thursday and appointed a committee to investigate the feasibility of two 13 - team leagues with limited inter - league competition for 1978.

Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, said the three - division concept was dismissed because it would eliminate some traditional rivalries and extend the length of the season with another tier of league championship playoffs.

"Many of our people are against the gimmickry of a wild - card team in a four - club playoff system," MacPhail said. "Our playoff people are afraid that a three - division schedule might create some imbalance between divisions."

MacPhail said no vote was taken on the three - division concept, but discussions indicated the majority of the owners favored two 13 - team leagues as baseball's most practical direction.

He said the leagues already have developed schedules for two 13 - team leagues so there would be no problem in implementing the program if it finally was approved.

MacPhail added that no particular teams were mentioned to move from the AL to the National League to balance the leagues.

The AL has 14 clubs, including the new expansion Seattle and Toronto teams. The NL has 12.

Although MacPhail said no particular teams were mentioned, a joint session of the owners heard a presentation from Sterling Tucker, chairman of the Washingn, D.C. City Council, for a team in the nation's capital.

Tucker said Washington was ready for baseball in terms of fan and government interest. He said Theodore N. Lerner, a Washington real estate developer, was ready to buy a major league franchise.

There were two plans being circulated for the creation of two 13 - team leagues. One involved Oakland and the other involved Baltimore.

The Oakland scenario would have owner Charles O. Finley selling his club to baseball, which would then find a buyer who would move the franchise to Washington for the 1978 season.

MacPhail said, "We couldn't buy Oakland if Finley doesn't want to sell."

But George Heideman, owner of the Jenkintown, Pa., Steel Co., told The Associated Press he has held a number of talks with Finley about buying the A's.

On Wednesday night, Finley confirmed having talked with Heideman. He also told The AP he would sell his team to his fellow major league owners "with one stipulation — that they agree to keep the club in Oakland for at least 10 years."

The other plan involved the sale of the Baltimore Orioles by owner Jerold C. Hoffberger and the transfer of the club to Washington. The AP learned that Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has been involved in discussions in this area. Hoffberger denied that the Orioles were for sale and Kuhn insisted that he had never discussed such a plan.

But the commissioner did say, "At this point it is not one team in particular that we're talking about." He refused, however, to speculate on any particular team.

NL President Charles Feeney said his owners appeared to think that the 13-13 plan was a good idea. "But we felt that there was not enough information on who would do what," he said.

Feeney said that if the NL had a preference it probably would not include inter-league play, but that he sees much more open - mindedness on the subject than in the past. He also said the NL would talk about the three - division concept at an August meeting, but that its adoption was highly improbable.

Joe headed for LA?

LOS ANGELES — Joe Namath appears headed for a job as a back-up quarterback for the 1977 Los Angeles Rams. Both he and the New York Jets seem in agreement that his illustrious career as "Broadway Joe" has ended.

Namath's agent, Jimmy Walsh, pulled no surprise Thursday when he said the Jets' quarterback for the past 12 years is willing to be traded to the Rams.

For the past three years, Namath has sought to move to the West Coast. The Jets now appear unwilling to again sign the star who reportedly made $450,000 each of the past two National Football League seasons.

If the Jets pick up the option year of Namath's contract, it would cost them $495,000 for the gimpy-kneed veteran who led the team to victory in Super Bowl III against Baltimore eight years ago.

The Rams might have to pay Namath $175,000 or so to act as understudy to Pat Haden, a Rhodes scholar and a rookie out of the University of Southern California last year. Yet signing Namath would also provide the opportunity of trading James Harris, the starter before Haden took over late in the 1976 season.

Harris has asked to be traded and the Rams are expected to oblige.

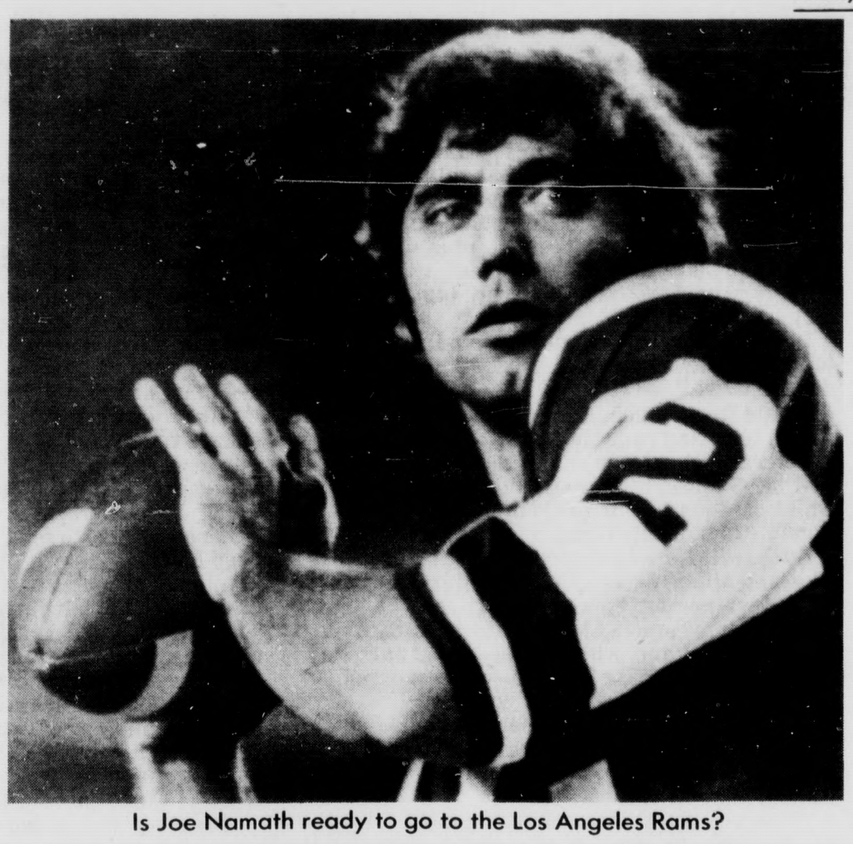
Namath has appeared on television and in motion pictures and reportedly feels his presence on the West Coast would enhance his chances of making big money in those segments of the entertainment industry.

The Rams need a backup quarterback and Namath could tutor young Haden, the former University of Southern California Rose Bowl star. But Los Angeles doesn't appear inclined to give up players or high draft choices for a 33 - year - old former star who might be good for just one more season of pro football.

Walsh said Thursday he has met four times during the past two weeks to determine if there was a sincere interest in acquiring Namath, adding he didn't know when a deal might be concluded.

If a deal cannot be made by the Jets, they must inform Namath by April 1 if they plan to pick up the option year on his contract. If not, he could be put through waivers if he desires or he could send a letter informing the club he wishes to become a free agent immediately.

Should Namath become a free agent without playing out his option year with the Jets, it appeared the Rams could sign him without having to compensate the New York club with two first-round draft choices. That would be the price if Namath played out the option year with the Jets and was signed by another NFL club. — by Associated Press



Is Joe Namath ready to go to the Los Angeles Rams?

A's defeated, sign 3 players

MESA, Ariz. — Cecil Cooper drove in five runs, including three with a second-inning home run off Oakland A's newcomer Doc Medich, powering the Milwaukee Brewers to a 10-8 exhibition victory yesterday.

Medich made his first pitching appearance since being traded by the Pittsburgh Pirates last week and allowed six runs in four innings. But the A's chipped away at Brewers pitchers Bill Travers and Barry Cort and led 8-6 after six innings.

Milwaukee scored four runs in the seventh off the A's Joe Coleman, who allowed only one hit but was victimized by three throwing errors including one by himself. The only hit in the rally was Robin Yount's triple which scored Steve Brye. A wild toss by catcher Tim Hosley allowed two runs to score.

Consecutive homers by Manny Sanguillen and Hosley had sent the A's ahead in the sixth.

Earlier Thursday, the A's announced that Claudell Washington, Mike Norris and Larry Lintz had signed contracts. Washington signed for three years, Norris and Lintz oneyear deals.

Norris and Lintz had been sent to the minor league camp by order of owner Charles O. Finley, but they returned to the major league club Thursday and Lintz started at second base. Norris probably will pitch over the weekend.

The signing of Washington, one of baseball's most promising young outfielders, left pitchers Mike Torrez and Paul Mitchell as Finley's major signing targets. Mitchell is unsigned, while Torrez is under just a one-year contract, so both could become free agents after this season.

'Quakes host Sting

The San Jose Earthquakes will host the Chicago Sting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Spartan Stadium in the 'Quakes' final area pre - season game.

San Jose closes out the North American Soccer lLeague pre - season schedule on April 2 at Portland, then returns for its league opener on Saturday, April 9 against the Los Angeles Aztecs.

The Earthquakes are coming off a 3-1 win over the Washington Diplomats Sunday in San Francisco, where John Smillie notched his first goal as an Earthquake in the first half, then Ilija Mitic added two late in the game to break a 1-1 tie. The win evened the 'Quakes' pre - season record at 2-2, including a 3-1 loss to NCAA champ USF.

"We created lots of chances, and that is the important thing," said Mitic, who will be after an unprecendented 100 career goals when the season opens. "If we are getting in dangerous position enough, goals will come."

Mitic is the league's all - time scoring leader with 93 goals and 33 assists for 219 points.

San Jose officially outshot Washington, 20-6, and goalkeeper Mike Hewitt was called on to make only two saves in the game. The defense was bolstered by the arrival of center back John Rowlands, who combined with defender Laurie Calloway in one of the most impressive defensive displays this pre - season.

Tomorrow's game, for which tickets are still available, will be Chicago's first appearance in the Bay Area. San Jose and the Sting have met once each season the past two years, splitting the meetings at Soldier Field in Chicago.

The Sting is led by phenom forward Miro Rys, who was signed out of a Chicago high school and ended up his banner rookie year by being selected to the U.S. National Team last year.

The return of starting defender Miro Pavlovic, in limbo the past three months due to his commitments to administrative tasks with Yugoslavia's Red Star club, is definitely still possible, according to Quakes owner Milan Mandaric.

"I am encouraged, but we still do not have a definite yes or no on Miro's return before our opener," Mandaric says.

Midfielder Tony Simoes, an elected deputy in Portugal's National Assembly, is expected to return before the Earthquakes finish their preseason in Portland on April 2.

The Earthquakes' season ticket campaign, already a record for the Quakes, should hit 14,000 this week, according to Sales and Marketing Director Jack Previte. The total leads all teams in the NASL.

Angels edge Giants

PHOENIX — Frank Tanana struck out eight batters over seven innings Thursday and Joe Rudi's ninth-inning single drove in the winning run for the California Angels, 4-3 winners over the San Francisco Giants in exhibition baseball.

Rudi also drove home a run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh, when the Angels scored twice to take a 3-2 lead. The Giants tied the score in the bottom of the seventh when Gary Alexander walked, Jack Clark doubled and Gary Thomasson singled.

Bruce Bochte doubled with one out in the ninth and, after Giants reliever Randy Moffitt struck out Don Baylor, Rudi poked his game-winning hit into right field.

Tanana allowed nine hits in his seven innings. The pitching victory went to reliever Mickey Scott.

Four of the Giants' hits were by Bill Madlock, the defending National League batting champion who had three singles and a double to raise his spring training average to .409.

Foothill beaten

SAN LORENZO — Foothill High School fell victim to a one-hit performance by three Arroyo pitchers as the Facons dropped a 4-0 decision here Wednesday afternoon.

Mike Fairclough, Dan Lucas and Dan Jones combined for the pitching feat. Mike Mueller smashed a three-run home run in the sixth inning for the winners.

Lucas was the winning pitcher, allowing no hits in 2⅓ innings, walking two batters and striking out two.

Bumgarner, Wood star for Gaels

MORAGA — Former East Bay Athletic League stars Norm Bumgarner and Ted Wood played a large role on St. Mary's College's basketball team during the recent season.

Bumgarner, a senior from Dublin High School, was the clubs' leading rebounder, pulling down 227 rebounds in 27 games for an 8.2 average. He was also the team's fourth leading scorer with a 9.4 average and shot 50.9 from the field. He averaged 60.8 of his field goal attempts in conference action.

Wood, a freshman from Livermore High School, averged 4.9 averaged 4.9 points in conference action. His 44 assists were second on the team to Nick Papageorge. Ted set a single-game assist record with 14 against Santa Clara.

He also made 54.8 percent of his field goal attempts and shot 77.4 from the foul line.

Ideal wins C1 crown

Mike Meuller's basket with 10 seconds to go gave Ideal the game and the C1 championship of the Tri-Cities basketball league at Camp Parks Tuesday night.

Mueller scored 19 points in the 57-56 win over Vern's Enterprises while team mate Jim Ward added 13 points. Mick Faeth had 20 for the losers while Al Andrews tallied 10 points.

In the C2 title match, the 76ers rallied in the second half to defeat American Pools, 51-44, as Rick Anderson and Jon Stebbins each scored 10 points.

For the losers, Lee Duay had 16 while both Tom Billy and Mike Willis tallied 10.

Rain plays havoc with sports events

Rainy weather again postponed the bulk of the local sports activity yesterday afternoon.

The Amador Valley-Dublin and California-San Ramon track meets have been rescheduled for next week. The Foothill-Granada meet is tentatively on for today at the Mats' oval. A date for the Livermore-Monte Vista meet had not been set by press time.

The Chabot College-San Mateo baseball game was also rescheduled for today on the Glads' diamond.

Barner NorCal Player of Year

As a result of his outstanding team play and 18-points-a-game average Phil Barner of Oakland's Fremont High School was named Northern California Prep Basketball Player of the Year by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's All-Northern California Board of Athletics yesterday.

The 6-6 forward led the Tigers to the Oakland Athletic League championship, the Northern California Tournament of Champions crown, a 25-1 record, and top-ranking in the state by one prep poll.

Two other Fremont players, 6-6 center Greg Howard, and 6-2 guard Ken Hardin, were also selected to the "dream team".

With all the talent the Alameda County team figures to have Mohatt could have a problem getting the players to adjust to team play. Players who are used to playing as individuals often give below-par performances in all-star contests because they havn't played with other athletes of their caliber before.

However, Skip knows how to mold a winner. His teams have won the East Bay Athletic League crown six of the nine years he's been head coach at Amador Valley. Sometimes his teams' didn't have the best talent in the league, but they still won the title because of Skip's coaching.

It will be a challenge coaching a team like the Alameda County All-Stars but a guy like Skip Mohatt is used to challenges.

Wolfe 32nd in standings

PEBBLE BEACH — Vic Wolfe of Livermore's Las Positas Golf Course is the only valley player with over 100 points in the Northern California Golf Association standings released here Monday.

Wolfe has 115 points in the standings, which include the Hayward and San Francisco City tournaments, well back of three-time point winner Mike Brannan.

Brannan, of Salinas, has piled up 690 points.

Wolfe's total ranks him in a tie for 32nd place with Harding Park's Bill Paulson and Peter Ancona of Pasatiempo.

Confident Mitchell likes Oakland's chances

MESA, Ariz — At the rate Charlie Finley keeps shuffling players, the Oakland A's resemble three teams this spring — One playing, one going and one coming.

As a result, there's utter confusion in camp because it's difficult to identify the players, even with a program at the A's home spring base here or on the road in the Cactus League.

Even though this presents a rather bleak picture, there's one of the few returning A's who isn't ready o throw in the towel.

Paul Mitchell of Pleasanton, the big right-handed pitcher acquired by Oakland early in the season in a big six-player deal (Reggie Jackson, Kenny Holtzman and Bill Von Bommel for Mike Torrez, Don Baylor and Mitchell) says "I have a hunch that once things settle down, we just might surprise a lot of people in the American League this season."

The 26-year old flame thrower points out "Our pitching staff is almost intact plus we got help through trades, and we have a lot of good young players who look like they can play in the big leagues."

When Finley dealt second baseman Phil Garner to the Pittsburgh Pirates, he acquired pitching depth in relief specialist Dave Guisti, Rick Langford and Doc Medich, although the latter has yet to report to spring camp in Mesa.

Veterans Blue Moon Odom and Joe Coleman also will be given every opportunity to make the clib which is deep in pitching numbers, though questionable in back-up talent.

Back with Mitchell are 20-hame winners Vida Blue and Mike Torrez along with Stan Bahnsen and Dick Bosman, proven major leaguers.

Of the newcomers, Mitchell is high on at least three, Mitch Page, who swings a good bat, Wayne Gross, who is hitting the ball well, and Rob Picciolo, a slick - fielding shortstop.

Page is an outfielder who came to Oakland in the Garner deal while Gross is being groomed to take over the third base spot vacated by ex-captain Sal Bando, now with Milwaukee.

"Honestly, I feel that if we can get out act together, we can become a contender again," the soft-spoken Mitchell remarked.

Paul reports that he is throwing real well and progessing on schedule in camp.

"My velocity is good and so is my rythm," says the former Oriole now in his sixth year of pro ball.

"From now until opening day, it's a matter of refinement. I'm concentrating on spotting the ball and my control," added Mitchell, who relies on a live fast ball and curve for his "out pitches" which he mixes with an occassional change-up.

Mitchell, who won eight of his last 12 decisions down the stretch in the 1976 season, hasn't signed a new contract yet, but he and his agent are ready to negotiate after receiving a one-year offer which he termed "very low as compared to what other players are receiving."

"We (his agent) didn't talk to Finley up to now because we didn't want to bug him during the court case," Mitchell reports. "But we're ready to negotiate now I'd like to get a multi-year agreement like the others."

Mitchell is hoping he and the owener came come can come to a satisfactory arrangement because "My wife Liz and I really like the Bay Area and want to stay."

Yet he admits that constant rumors about players and the club "are very distracting because we just don't know what to believe these days."

The righthander said he heard that there was a trade in the mixer that would have sent him to the Chicago Cubs, but that it fell through.

"It's very distracting to come to the clubhouse every day and listen to players say "What's going on today? It would help a lot if Charlie Finley would just show up and tell us just what's happening in person. It's tough to concentrate on playing ball when you don't know where you or your team stand."

Mitchell's 9-7 record last season is misleading because he did most of his winning after an early-season rash of injuries and came through when the A's were battling for a playoff spot.

"Up until last year, I never missed a starting assignment in pro ball and maybe the law of averages caught up to me," he noted. "Now that's out of the way, the big thing for me is to stay healthy and pitch the way I did the last two months of the 1976 season."

Before he got back into regular rotation, Mitchell was bogged down by leg, hamstring, back and stomach injuries along with tendonitis.

But he's feeling A-OK this spring and hopefully off to a banner season.

Chabot batters prime for SM

SAN MATEO — His team is struggling to stay out of the cellar, but Chabot College designated hitter Rob Jessen has piled up some impressive statistics for the Glads, who hope to get their second meeting with league - leading College of San Mateo out of the way at 3 p.m. here today.

Jessen has blasted two home runs and knocked in eight runs in Golden Gate Conference play and sports a .363 batting average.

Two other Glads also rank among the GGC batting leaders.

Although not as powerful as part-time first baseman Jessen, speedy outfielder John Cook went three - for - six in Tuesday's wild extra - inning win over West Valley to up his average to a Chabot-high .375. Cook also has five steals and two doubles.

Third baseman Dan Pearson is hitting .305. No Glad pitcher ranks among the league's top 15 hurlers.

Chabot was scheduled to meet the Bulldogs here yesterday, but heavy rains forced postponement of the contest. It was the first rain-out of the GGC season for the Glads, but games with DeAnza and San Francisco were postponed when darkness forced the discontinuation of a tie game.

In the first meeting between CSM and Chabot, the Bulldogs prevailed, 9-1.

Lohmann stars as Pokes lose

Paul Lohmann smashed nearly two seconds off his South - county leading 200-individual medley time as Livermore High's swim team fell to powerful Miramonte, 117-66 Wednesday.

Lohmann clocked a 2:05.5 in eclipse his former season best of 2:07.3. He also won the 100-back in 58.3, more than a second off his best of 57.2 but still a fine fine.

The Cowboy junior varsity fell, 119-30.

TV opens series

The Tri-Valley Pee-Wee AA ice hockey team will open its Northern California Junior Hockey Association semi-final play-off series with Santa Clara Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at Eastridge Mall in San Jose.

The second game of the best two-out-of-three series will be played Sunday morning at 11 a.m. at Dublin's Iceland rink.

The PeeWees advanced to the second round via a two-game aggragate goals win over Berkeley.

AV wins

The Amador Valley High School softball team exploded for 15 runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to defeat visiting Holy Names, 28-8 Tuesday in Pleasanton.

Jayne Kuhns homered twice for the Dons while Jamie Watson slammed another circuit blow. Deanna Marengo limited Holy Names to seven hits as compared to the Dons own 22-hit attack.

An unbroken line of excellence. Since 1886, Mercedes-Benz has produced one classic automobile after another. Each one a car engineered like no other car in the world.

The automobiles of Mercedes-Benz. The legend continues.

Mercedes-Benz invented the automobile in 1886—and in 1895 produced the first car ever built on a production line.

Over the generations, Mercedes-Benz has perfected one engineering advance after another.

Add to that an auto racing record of over 4,400 individual victories and you have an automotive heritage that's unmatched by any other car in the world.

Now Mercedes-Benz offers seven separate and distinct models for sale in the United States. Each one is unique.

Each one continues, in its own way, the Mercedes-Benz legend.

Above, you see almost 50 years in the life of a legend. Look closely. See how nobly time touches these Mercedes-Benz cars. Their appeal is enduring. A characteristic that marks the truly legendary and distinguishes it from the merely passing fancy.

A blend of future and past

Here is disciplined grace, the product of thoughtful evolution in design. When Mercedes-Benz engineers create a new car, their vision is wide. They look backwards to retain and improve on their worthiest earlier ideas. And forwards as well, to blend in their latest innovative technology.

Thoughtful evolution in design: a mark of Mercedes-Benz.

To the eye, the changes may be subtle. Invariably, though, they are quietly beautiful—which shows how unerringly their "form follows function."

More importantly, the cars of Mercedes-Benz are designed to appeal strongly to your intelligence. They are honest cars. The promises they make relate directly to their primary function: well-engineered, safe transportation.

One of the seven Mercedes-Benz models currently available in the United States is in the front rank above: the 450SEL Sedan. Our full offering is described in the table, below. Each one is a blending of patient craftsmanship with sophisticated technology.

Enduring value... and enduring pleasure

Many models of the Special Roadster 500K shown here (no. 4, circa 1935) are appraised at over $50,000. The rare 540K Cabriolet B (no. 3, circa 1936) is considered a genuine value at over $75,000. And based on average official used car prices over the past five years, the contemporary Mercedes-Benz automobiles have held their value better than any other make of luxury car made in America.

The high retained value of Mercedes-Benz cars is a rational attraction. But they have an emotional raison d'être, too. To experience it, arrange, through your Mercedes-Benz Dealer, to drive one. You'll experience an unrivaled automotive pleasure. One that happens only behind the wheel of this charismatic car.

Truly, the legend continues.

Episcopal bishop suspends priest

The Rt. Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California, recently suspended the Rev. Robert Morse, Rector of St. Peter's Church in Oakland, from the performance of all sacramental and priestly functions in the Episcopal Church.

The Bishop stated that the reason for the suspension was "Father Morse has abandoned the communion of this Church and that he has broken communion with the lawfully elected Bishop of California."

The disagreement between Father Morse and the Episcopal Church stems from the Church's 1976 General Convention allowing the ordination of women and approving a revised Book of Common Prayer.

Dinner

Plans are underway for a progressive dinner, sponsored by St. Augustine's Church in Pleasanton. Set for Saturday, March 26, cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m. and a donation of $2.50 per couple is requested. For reservations call Shirley Sabal at 846-1793 or Cathie Huck at 828-0574.

Singalong

The People's Church (1135 Bluebell Drive in Livermore) invites the public to worship with songs along with The Calvarymen from Modesto Saturday, March 26 at 7 p.m.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

Last summer, was your lawn starting to thin out? Brown patches showing up here and there? To much shade, or too many kids playing on it to give it a chance?

It doesn't make much difference whether you are starting from scratch with a new lawn or your lawn is ten, twenty-five or fifty years old; here are some facts you should consider:

WITH AN OLD LAWN you don't have to put up with a scuffy, unsightly lawn you are ashamed of . . .

WITH A NEW LAWN you can avoid the discouragement and problems mentioned above.

HERE IS WHY: Research facilities, established nearly a third of a century ago by Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc., have under observation over 1,000 strains and species of lawn grasses. Several of these new grass discoveries have had excellent ratings from universities who are doing turfgrass research. They have no financial interest in the sale of these new grasses.

One of these grasses is BenSun ® (A-34) Kentucky Bluegrass which outranks all other bluegrasses in most of the categories studied and tested. For example:

BenSun (A-34) is rated the most shade tolerant of any bluegrass.

BenSun (A-34) is the only grass to receive an excellent rating for wear tolerance.

BenSun (A-34) is rated at or near the top in disease resistance.

BenSun (A-34) has been under observation for twenty-five years and has been performance proven on hundreds of thousands of lawns, athletic fields and golf courses for the past eighteen years. No other recent bluegrass development has had such a long experience of successful ratings and performance.

BenSun (A-34) thrives in hot or cold climates, high or low altitudes and does well on good or poor soils.

BenSun (A-34) is the most hardy bluegrass available. When injured it springs back quickly, healing the injury in a very short time.

BenSun (A-34) was the only grass to remain green during the recent drought in England and Scotland. Tees at St. Andrews Golf Course planted with BenSun (A-34) remained green even when not watered regularly.

BenSun (A-34) Kentucky Bluegrass is available as sod, sod plugs or seed. The sod and sod plugs of BenSun (A-34) are guaranteed against loss from growth failure. BenSun (A-34) Sun & Shade Mixture Lawngrass Seed is guaranteed as follows:

"If you are not satisified with the results obtained from this seed, return the empty box with proof of purchase within 6 months to Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc. You will be supplied with more seed or your money will be refunded, your choice."

For every person who sees the inside of your home, thousands will see your lawn and landscaping around your home. So when renovating an old lawn or establishing a new lawn why not insist on the finest lawn possible at the lowest price possible . . . BenSun (A-34) Kentucky Bluegrass. You, your children and maybe your grandchildren will be glad you did. BenSun (A-34) is like a diamond . . . it is forever.

BenSun (A-34) is a product of the world's largest, one of the oldest and most experienced grower of fine lawns.

WARREN'S LAWN FERTILIZERS: Warren's research has selected the best formula of fertilizers to care for your lawn. Warren's LAWN FOOD and WEED & FEED have the proper balance of chemicals to give your lawn the proper food nutrients.

Valley director honored

Dr. Arthur Barnes, who has directed the Livermore - Amador Symphony for 13 years, will be the guest of honor at a post-concert reception Saturday. The director's birthday coincides with the annual joint concert by the symphony and the Livermore Civic Chorus commencing at 8:15 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church in Livermore. Nico Snel of the Civic Chorus will join Dr. Barnes in conducting the all-French program which includes Bizet's Symphony in C Major, Faure's Requiem Mass, and the bell song from 'Lakme.'

Anti-housing project leaders band together

Organized opposition has materialized against the May 31 ballot measure calling for demolition of Komandorski Village and its replacement with 150 new units of public housing.

A group comprised mainly of CARD Committee members has signed a ballot argument against the measure. Some of the opponents also attended a housing authority meeting Wednesday night to make their views known to commissioners.

The commission responded by reaffirming its intention to go ahead with the ballot measure and the construction of the new housing, if authorized by the Dublin area electorate. Only Dubliners will vote on it because Komandorski Village is located in that unincorporated area. However, the public housing will be open to people in Pleasanton and adjacent areas, too.

The one exception the commission made Wednesday night was to tell the critics that it will look into the cost figures for refurbishing. But according to Housing Authority Executive Secretary Michael Parsons dollars alone don't tell the story. Building from the ground up helps build the social environment so that the future Komandorski Village would be a better community, said Parsons.

In addition, new construction can utilize many energy - saving devices so that utility bills are lowered for residents, Parsons added.

Pleasanton 'Y' offers fitness

Achieve physical and psychological fitness through endurance training and inner self - awareness with Carolyn Hobbs' adult conditioning class, scheduled to begin at Pleasanton's YMCA Thursday, March 31.

Classes for women only are planned from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the YMCA, 287 Rose Avenue. Co-ed classes will also be held at Alisal School, 1454 Santa Rita Road in Pleasanton.

For more information call the YMCA at 462-2211.

Pros, cons on housing measure listed

More study is needed by the Pleasanton Housing Authority and the public before a decision is made on whether to build new housing or refurbish the existing units at Komandorski Village, according to 12 opponents of a May 31 ballot measure.

The ballot measure, submitted to the county registrar of voters by the housing authority, asks the public to approve 150 units of new public housing to replace the existing 170 units. State law has decreed the units must come down by Jan., 1979.

Both the housing authority commissioners and the opponents submitted arguments in time for the ballot deadline Wednesday afternoon.

The "no" argument group is not opposed to public housing; it claims that refurbishing has not been considered and if it is a cheaper alternative, it ought to be adopted. There would be a saving to the federal taxpayer, says the argument.

"New heating systems, utilities, interiors, etc. are many years overdue", says the "no" argument, but the proposed measure "should be compared with what should be far less expensive programs which would best utilize the taxpayers' money." "Until this is done, and the voters understand the alternatives, a 'no' vote is the only way to avoid giving a blank check to the housing authority," said the statement, which claimed similar "blank checks" have been given to BART, the redevelopment agency and LAVWMA in the past, "resulting in cost overruns, unending expenses and a continuing drain on the taxpayer".

The opponents said that a project similar to Komandorski Village has been refurbished in Vallejo and is being sold as condominiums. The same job could be done at Komandorski for a fifth the cost of replacement, said the argument.

The argument in favor says there will be no increase in local, state or federal taxes if the project is approved by voters. "In fact, whether Komandorski Village is rehabilitated or demolished completely, it will not save the taxpayers one penny," said the argument in favor. "Money has been set aside or allocated by the Congress for public housing and if not used for this area, this funding will be used by other communities across the country for their housing needs, while this area will be left behind with second - rate housing."

The "pro" argument, which covers 300 words, speaks to other purported advantages of building the new housing, including using the open spaces on the 33 acre site for parks or other public purposes.

If voters fail to approve the ballot measure in May, it apparently would mean at least a six month setback for the replacement process, since the next regularly scheduled election occurs in November.

Asked whether a delay would kill federal financing for the project, Executive SecretarY Michael Parsons said funding is improving now, but there is no telling how they may be in the future Signers of the "pro" ballot argument include County Supervisor Valerie Raymond, Housing Authority Commissioner and Komandorski Village tenant Pat Broughton, St. Raymond's Catholic Church Pastor Bernard Moran, VCSD Director Lila Euler, and Dublin Chamber of Commerce President Todd Lee. They do not reflect endorsement of their groups, if any group is mentioned.

Signers of the opposing argument include CARD Committee members Thurmon Caudill, Leo Heckathorn, Don Savery, Jim Jordan, Wanda Aldrich, Joyce Heckathorn, Doris Antonini, John Fraga, Ray Kidder, and Birdie Bianchi; Paul Tull, Sara Ana Steinhauff, John Begieb-ing, and Charles Burdine, who is a Komandorski Village tenant. CARD as an organization will consider endorsing the "no" argument when it meets 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Pleasanton Hotel.

Supreme Court won't aid Moonie backers in fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Supreme Court refused Thursday to consider a petition aimed at hampering deprogramming of so-called Moonies and members of other such groups.

The court denied without comment a request to prohibit all superior courts in the state from granting temporary conservatorships without notice.

The petition had been filed by New Educational Development Systems Inc., a self-styled religious group which says it studies "some of the ideas of Rev. Sun Myung Moon."

The group headquartered in Berkeley and headed by Dr. Moses Durst had asked that lower courts be forbidden to grant such ex parte (without hearing) orders pending a ruling.

But the prime request was for a permanent order banning issuance of temporary conservatorships. In the alternative, the group asked that superior courts be required to notify the person involved of the proceedings. The initiator would be cited within 48 hours if the order was granted without such notice.

Parents and relatives of the persons who have become members of such organizations as Moon's church or affiliated groups, have obtained temporary conservatorships to gain custody and in most cases initiate deprogramming.

Currently a number of cases are in progress in state and federal courts alleging such church members are being deprived of their civil rights by the conservatorships and deprogramming practices.

The petition filed with the tribunal claimed California laws violated due process and are invalid because they authorize the involuntary appointment of a temporary guardian or conservator over a person without giving notice or any opportunity to appear.

Moonies home for 30 days

"They ceased to participate in social consciousness activities in which they had been so interested," he added. "They divorced themselves from their actual families in favor of a spiritual family. They diminished the activities that had been important to them."

Shapiro admitted the idea of brainwashing is hard to believe but argued nothing else could explain the "complete turnaround" shown by the church members.

Baker argued, however, that Shapiro and the parents had confused "brainwashing" with religious conversion.

"We have, I believe, modern day religious persecution here, your honor," Baker said. "Really, what we're doing here is talking about changing their religion."

He said freedom of religion is ranked in the Constitution with political freedom and said, "the Constitution also gives us the right to make the wrong choice."

He said the deprogrammers whom the parents wanted to hire to try to talk their children out of the church are the true brainwashers.

"They want to bring them back to the norm," he said, "so they will go back to narcotics, back to promiscuity, go back to smoking. I don't want them to go back, because they're better than that now."

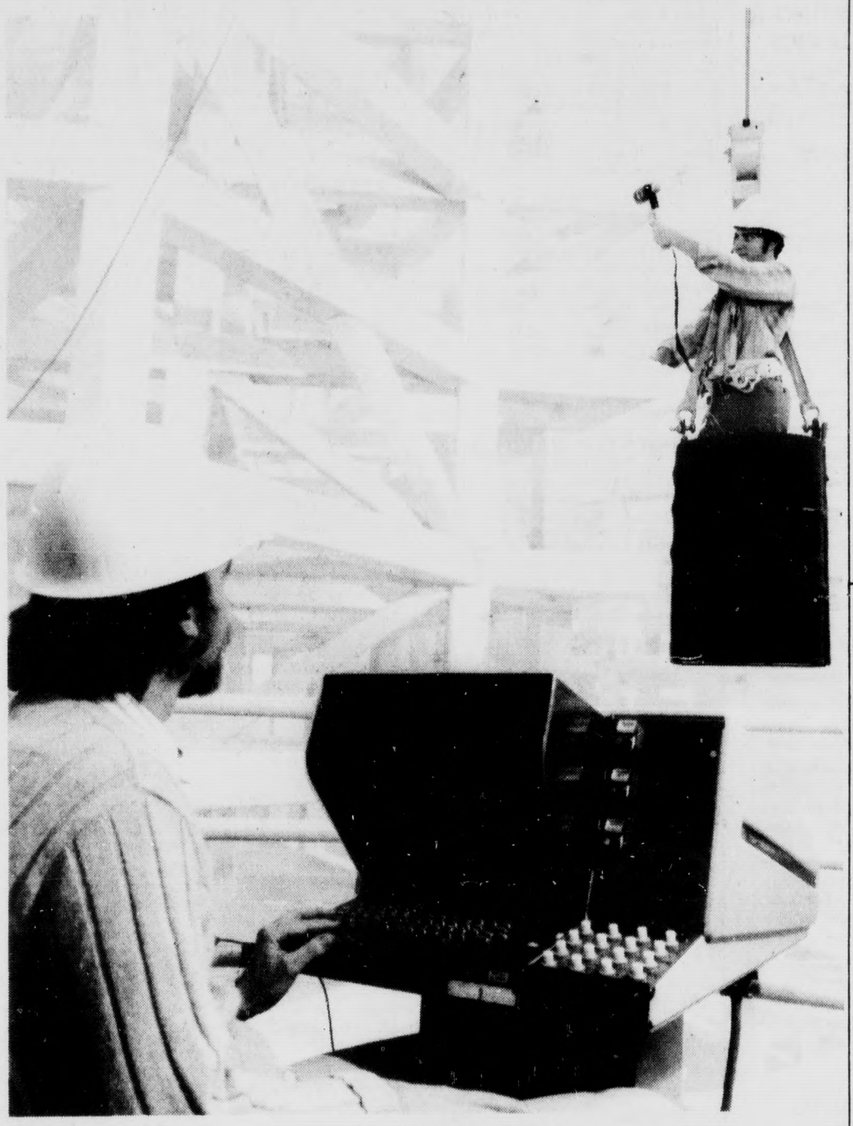
In closing, he said to the judge, "We pray God gives you the wisom of Solomon, to decide only on the truth."

The parents claimed the church had changed their children from creative young adults into unquestioning "zombies" willing to stand for hours on the street selling flowers to raise money they never saw again.

COMPUTER FINDS KISS STIRRING

WASHINGTON (AP) — A kiss is one of the latest methods developed for turning on a computer. A Japanese company has produced a computer that only registers lip prints, reports National Geographic. The computer won't work until the operator presses his lips against it and only if the kiss stirs something in its memory bank.

Most computers are more easily turned on, and the electronic marvels have aided and abetted fraud, theft, embezzlement and military and industrial espionage, Geographic notes.



The biggest

More than six miles of steel beams make up the support system for Shiva, what will be the world's largest laser when it becomes operational later this year at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. The support system is engineered to keep the laser's 20 long arms aimed precisely at a target fuel pellet about the size of a pinpoint in attempts to develop fusion energy. Mechanical engineer Michael Posehn (left) operates a computer to analyze vibrations at critical locations as Jeffrey Katz sends vibrations through the structure using an electronically controlled hammer. They proved that minor disturbances, such as small earthquakes or normal ground vibrations, won't throw the 250-foot-long, 25 trillion watt laser out of alignment when in use.

Memorial scholarships await two top students

LIVERMORE — Two one-time scholarships will be offered to 1977 graduates of Livermore and Granada High School as a memorial to the late Dr. Theodore Merkle, a distinguished Lawrence Livermore Laboratory scientist who died of cancer 11 years ago.

The two $350 awards come from a private fund raised in memory of Dr. Merkle, former associate director and head of the LLL physics department. He was an internationally known authority on reactor physics technology, and was highly regarded locally for his contributions to Valley civic affairs.

Under terms of the scholarships, any Livermore or Granada senior who plans to pursue a degree at any University of California campus in fields of Dr. Merkles's interest — physics, engineering, biology or medicine — is eligible. Awards will be made on the basis of the students' scholastic achievement and participation in school and community affairs.

Details on how to apply for the scholarships are available at the counseling offices of both schools. Deadline for applications is April 15.

Summer teaching jobs reported for Amador

Applications are being accepted for secondary summer school positions with the Amador Valley Joint High School District until April 22.

The summer school program in the Amador district will run from June 22 to August 3 at Foothill High School.

The pay rate is $8.05 per hour. Anyone interested in teaching summer school should contact the Amador district personnel department, 123 Main St., Pleasanton, phone 462-5500 as early as possible.

The school district encourages innovative programs and new curriculum ideas in their summer session. Anyone interested in teaching a new or special course should include a short description of the course with their application.

Big ping pong tourney set

Remember the raw, organic, sweat - inducing game of ping pong before the electronic geniuses got hold of it and shortened it to a mere flick of the finger on a video screen?

Well, that kind of lunging action can be yours to witness or experience beginning at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Camp Parks Gym as a table tennis tourney unfolds under the sponsorship of the Valley's three recreation departments.

Contestants can sign up between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m.

LEGAL NOTICE

MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT
RESOLUTION NO. 1976/77-20

WHEREAS, surplus real property and classroom facilities exist within the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT, and

WHEREAS, it has been determined that certain real property and classroom facilities are not needed for the intended use of the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT during the school years 1977 - 1978, 1978 - 1979, and 1979 - 1980,

NOW BE IT RESOLVED that it is the intent of the Board of Trustees of the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT to lease that portion of the Dublin Elementary School, located at 7997 Vomac Road, Dublin, California, described as follows:

Nine classrooms numbered B1, B2-3, B4-5, B6, B10-11, B12 together with the furniture and equipment located therein and access to and use of surfaced area, playground and courtyard area adjoining the above named classrooms.

Lease of the above - named property shall be for a period of one to three years and shall include such terms and conditions as to cause no liability or cost to the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT.

Use of the facilities shall be for educational purposes and shall be in accordance with all rules, regulations, statutes and laws governing the use of said facilities.

Sealed proposals to lease the above - described real property and classroom facilities will be received and considered at the regularly scheduled Board of Trustees meeting of the MURRAY SCHOOL DISTRICT, at 8:00 P.M., April 18, 1977, at Frederiksen School, 7243 Tamarack, Dublin California.

The minimum price that will be considered for the lease of the aforementioned real property and facilities is Sixteen Thousand, Two Hundred Dollars ($16,200.00) per year.

Hayward MARINE Center

"ENTIRE MONTH OF MARCH"

GRAND OPENING CELEBRATION and BOAT SHOW

AHOY! . . . welcome aboard the Bay Area's newest marine center! We have almost an acre of beautiful new boats —all sizes and types for cruising, fishing, skiing, racing, etc.—on display now with more coming in all the time; we feature and display the full line of Mercury outboard and inboard engines for every application; a complete marine hardware, accessories and chandlery showroom and a totally new, completely equipped and staffed service facility.

"Total Boating—That's us"

So drop your anchor, gather your crew and come aboard to look us over, splice the mainbrace (have refreshments) and meet our ship's company.

Over 100 Prizes will be Awarded

GRAND PRIZE

Your choice of:

STARCRAFT OR MERCURY 85 H.P. Outboard Engine

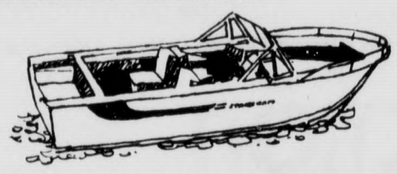
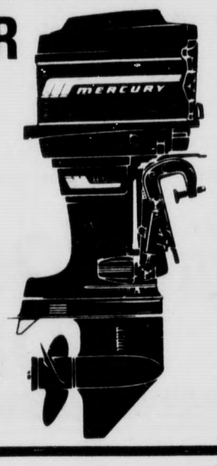
Super Sport 16' Bowrider Runabout



An all-purpose family boat that's great for cruising, fishing, water-skiing, etc. Comes complete with windshield, bow-rail, seats and steering (motor not included).



The popular "850" electric-start engine you can trust for dependability and performance. Comes complete with propeller; control box and cable; 6 gallon fuel tank and line.

2ND PRIZE

Ray Jefferson VHF/FM MARINE RADIO TELEPHONE Model - 1025

A complete marine radio telephone package for reliable, clear VHF/FM transmission and reception. This unit provides all the necessary Marine radio telephone functions. Can be self-installed.

100—3RD PRIZES

ENGINE SERVICE CERTIFICATES

Pay us $1.00 total and that will entitle 100 boat engine owners to select any one of the five jobs as described on the certificate, including parts and labor!

(We are that confident you will give us your future service work!)

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES: No purchase necessary. Complete the official entry form and deposit in contest box. Forms and contest box are at Hayward Marine Center, 25125 Mission Blvd., Hayward, Ca. Registrants must be 21 years of age or older. Winners will be drawn by impartial judges on March 31, 1977, and their decisions will be final. No entries can be returned. Chances of winning depend on number of entries received. You need not be present to win. Winners will be notified by mail and a list of the winners names will be posted at the Center. Employees and families of Hayward Marine Center, its subsidiaries and agencies are ineligible. Winners are liable for Federal, State and local taxes, if any.

Meet and Talk with the Experts

A great opportunity to meet with the factory representatives and get all the latest specifics on boats, motors, trailers, fishing, water skiing, boat racing, communications, recreation, spare parts and accessories. In short, everything to do with boating. And, especially, a chance to shoot the breeze with our service and repair experts, too!

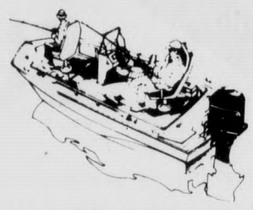
ON DISPLAY

The fabulous Cigarette Off-Shore Racer

See the leading world champion racing hull—Mercruiser powered. Meet and talk with winning owners and drivers.

ON DISPLAY

Bass Boat



The latest word in bass fishing luxury. Get first-hand bass fishing know-how from the champions of the sport.

FREE REFRESHMENTS

Bring the whole family—the coffee, cookies, cokes and candy are on us. Boating movies, too!

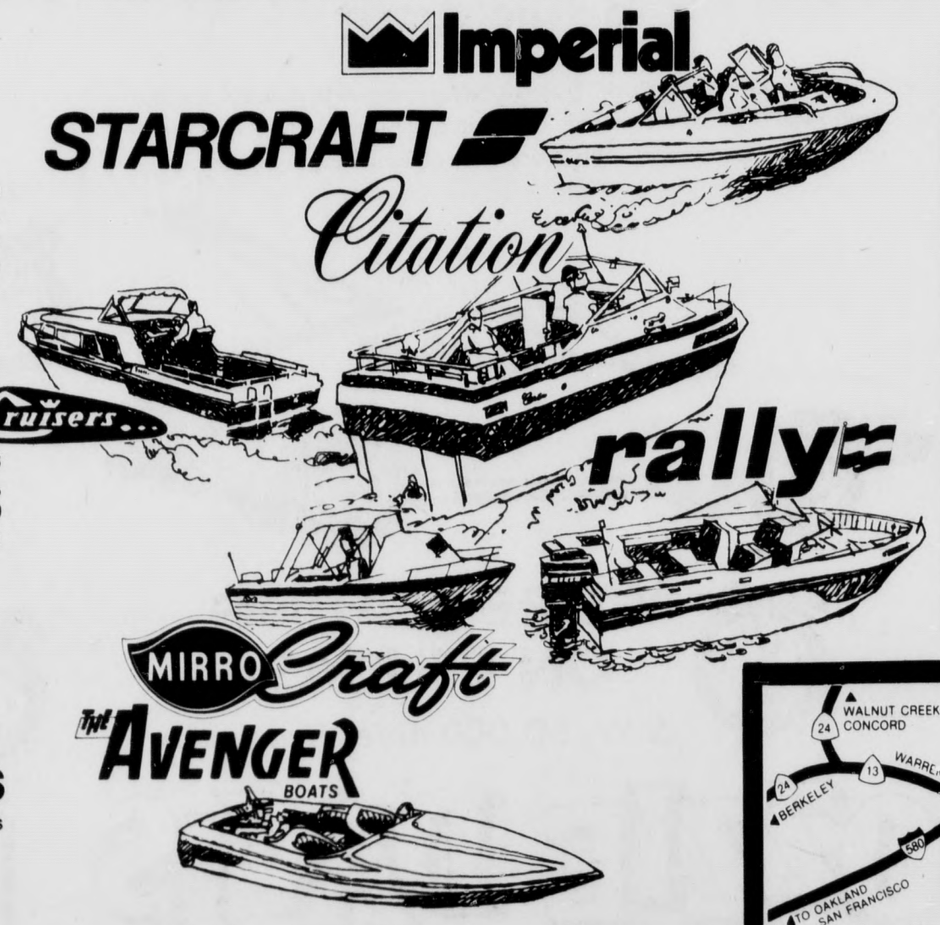
FREE Delta Recreation Maps to all qualified registrants

The best map we've seen detailing the "what, where and how" about the fabulous Delta. Retail value $3.00.

OVER 100 BOATS and MOTORS on DISPLAY

An outstanding indoor/outdoor boat show!

See what is new and exciting in cabin cruisers, runabouts, ski-boats, fishing skiffs, racing hulls and everything in-between. And, all the latest engines and gear to go with them.



EXTRA SPECIAL!

$100.00 worth of FREE ACCESSORIES will be given to anyone purchasing a boat, engine or boat package totalling $2500.00 or more. This offer is good for the entire Grand Opening month of March, 1977.

EXTRA SPECIAL BOAT PACKAGE PRICE REDUCTIONS

Come and see the "tagged" package deals at low, low "Grand Opening" prices.

VISIT OUR SUPER-SERVICE CENTER

Without doubt, this area's newest completely equipped and staffed boat service facility will impress you. Look over our shop . . . our service specialists will proudly show you through and happily discuss your needs, problems or whatever.
